Transportation Industry Presents Serious Problem to United States
SEEK FOR NEW SYSTEM
Hoover and Couzens Want Formula to Restore Roads to Earning Basis

Washington.—(CPA)—With legislation directly affecting the unemployment problem of the way the intention of congress is to be focused on indirect methods of stimulating employment.

First and foremost among the problems that are pressing for action is that of the transportation industry. The railroads are asking for relief. Their securities have been affected by an unprecedented drop in earnings and the question arises as to what the government can do to help the railroads, because they are one of the major factors in the use of raw materials and also one of the principal employers of labor, not only in construction but in maintenance.

President Hoover has been conferring with Senator Couzens, chairman of the commerce committee in the senate, and with other leaders in congress, trying to find a formula to aid in restoring the railroads to an earning basis.

Plans Made Year Ago
Plans for the consolidation of railroads were issued just about a year ago—the final draft of the plan having been put into shape after an urgent request by the president that the Interstate Commerce commission put something before the country that could be thoroughly examined and acted upon.

Within the past 12 months various discussions have been held among the railroad executives and they are believed to be nearer an agreement than at any time since the plan was announced. Consolidation, however, hinges upon action by congress on some of the vital provisions necessary for the handling of the interests of minority stock holders.

Broader, however, than the legal questions involved in bringing about consolidation for the railroads. The question is whether the railroads should be permitted to own bus lines. Not only are the

FLAMING OIL WELL
STILL UNCONQUERED

Wewoka, Okla.—(CP)—The gigantic blow torch created by the burning of No. 2 A. B. Douglas wild gas and oil well still roared defiance to day as plans for a third attempt to "shoot" out the flames went forward.

"Wild Abe," as the well has become known, yesterday won the first two rounds of the fight with M. M. Kinley and Harry Kinley, famed fire fighting brothers of the mid-continent oil field, when two five-quart shots of nitroglycerine failed to extinguish the flames.

A truce was called and the brothers retreated by plane to Tulsa for more ammunition.

The nitroglycerine, heavily insulated, was placed as close as possible to the towering flame by the intrepid brothers, and fired by electricity.

A charge planned to be shot at noon today was to be double the size of the first two.

With the death of Mrs. Lucinda Colman, 95, at her home in Milwaukee Sunday evening, Lawrence college loses the sole surviving member of the original graduating class in 1857. Mrs. Colman died of injuries received in a fall four days ago.

OLDEST GRADUATE OF LAWRENCE DIES

Mrs. Lucinda Colman Succumbs to Injuries Received in Fall

The last surviving member of the class of 1857 at Lawrence college, Mrs. Lucinda Colman, 95, widow of the Rev. Henry Colman, died at her home in Milwaukee Sunday evening of injuries received four days ago in a fall. Dr. H. M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, and other faculty members will attend the funeral services at Kenwood Methodist church in Milwaukee Wednesday.

In the spring the body will be sent to Appleton for burial. Commenting upon the death of the aged alumna, Dr. Wriston said Monday morning:

"In the death of Mrs. Colman, the last of the graduates of the original class, the active tie between the Lawrence of today and the founders of the college is broken. Mrs. Colman has been not only our last living graduate and sole survivor of the first graduating class. She has been the embodiment of all that the college stood for then and of all it stands for now—a keen mind, well stored with knowledge, active and optimistic and idealistic in its outlook upon the changing world; a cultivated taste, quick and wise in its appreciation of beauty in every form; a spiritual earnestness growing out of a profound religious faith.

The companies involved in the proposed transfer are the Wisconsin Valley Power Co., the Waupaca Electric Service and Railway Co., and the Valley Transit company, all of which are controlled by the Bylesby Engineering and Managing Co., Chicago. The bailiff called the gangster's name in jury court today. There was no answer.

Eighteenth Amendment Hit By Dartmouth College Head

Hanover, N. H.—(CP)—Dr. Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, in his first public statement on the prohibition question, today declared his opposition to the eighteenth amendment.

He outlined his attitude in a letter to the National Temperance council, composed of the principal officers of nation temperance organizations, in reply to a request from the council for a statement of his views. In it, he said: "I do not see how individuals or organizations whose solicitude is for building up a spirit of temperance can continue to believe in or to support the theory or the practice of the eighteenth amendment as defined in current legislation."

He previously had refrained from making any public statement of his opinion in the belief that to do so

LIFE TERM IN PRISON ASKED FOR OFFICER

Jury Against Death Penalty in Verdict After Prolonged Debate

BULLETIN
Kansas City, Kas.—(CP)—Major Charles A. Shepard was convicted today on a charge of having fatally poisoned his second wife. The jury verdict carried a sentence of life imprisonment, specifying that capital punishment should not be imposed.

Kansas City, Kas.—(CP)—The jury deliberating the case of Major Charles A. Shepard, army medical officer, charged with the poison murder of his wife, was still deadlocked today.

Arriving at the federal building at 9 o'clock a. m. from their hotel, the jurors began the third day of discussion and balloting.

Bailiffs reported that the 12 men still were hopeful of reaching an agreement. There was no indication as to how the jury was divided.

Judge Richard J. Hopkins indicated he would hold the jury together as long as there was any possibility of a verdict.

Since receiving the case at 2:55 p. m. Saturday, the jurors had not returned to the court to make any report or make inquiries.

A luncheon recess was taken by the jury from 11:40 a. m. to 1 o'clock p. m.

Charles A. Shepard, had professed belief he would be acquitted.

Expressing disappointment when the jury completed its second day without reaching a verdict, the 59-year-old officer revealed he had arranged to leave Kansas City last night for Fittsimmons hospital, in Denver.

"But what can we do?" he said. "We are helpless."

Meanwhile, Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 24-year-old government witness and alleged motive for the fatal poisoning of Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley Kas. June 15, 1919, was to report this morning for resumption of her duties as a stenographer at Brooks Field, Texas.

The jurors, showing the strain of their responsibility, retired at 7 o'clock last night without revealing the trend of the balloting. They received the case at 2:55 p. m. Saturday after a trial lasting almost three weeks in which approximately 100 witnesses testified.

The assignment of Major Shepard in the fall of 1923 to the flight surgery school of Brooks Field, near San Antonio, Texas, started a chain of events which the government asserted led the army tuberculosis specialist into a love affair which caused him to kill his wife.

Position of Defense
Defense counsel accepting virtually the same chain of evidence declared the major innocent and said "all he did was fall in love with another woman."

Major Shepard met Miss Brandon in a San Antonio rooming house, they attended movies and had dinners out together.

The government asserted they were eluding a love affair which caused him to kill his wife. The defense declared their relations were platonic.

Mrs. Shepard, 34 years old when she died, was portrayed by witnesses as an alcoholic who could "carry" liquor well. She was declared however, to have feared insanity, from which her mother was said to have suffered, defense witnesses adding Mrs. Shepard hinted of suicide.

Chicago Mayor Sues Head Of Commerce Association

Thompson Asks Million Damages in 36-page Brief Filed Today

The allegation of slander was based upon a letter or memorandum given the Federal Radio commission by Randolph in which he set down his views of Mayor Thompson's prize coupon plan.

The declaration filed in Thompson's behalf by Attorney Samuel L. Golan set forth that Randolph charged the mayor with operating a lottery.

The business men who opposed the "Prosperity Drive" held that a campaign to augment local business for a period of months would have less beneficial effect than a steady effort to improve economic conditions generally.

Washington authorities lifted the brief ban on advertising matter for the coupon scheme after Mayor Thompson's attorneys demonstrated that the selection of "winners" was decided not by chance, but by the amount of 25 cent purchase coupons obtained by persons in certain income classes.

Mr. Randolph was out of the city today.

The letter, according to the declaration in the suit, "falsely heralded Mayor Thompson throughout the United States and foreign countries as a corrupt and dishonest person and public official, and the promoter of a huge lottery in violation of the law of the United States and the state of Illinois." It added that Col. Randolph wrote the letter "wickedly, maliciously, intending to injure the mayor's good name."

Shooting Results In SEARCH FOR GAMBLER
Long Beach, Calif.—(CP)—The shooting of a Los Angeles police officer during a gunfight here last night resulted today in a search for a man described by the authorities as an internationally known gambler whose checks for a total of $9,000 were found in the possession of an alleged gunman arrested after the shooting.

The officer wounded, W. H. Wagoner, 35, may die. James J. Sherman, 35, and Pat Bruemmer, arrested after the fight, gave their occupations as gamblers and were said by police to have been identified as two of four men who shot it out with Wagoner and a fellow officer.

The gamblers held, according to police, said the checks were taken on gambling boats off the California shore. The identity of the alleged gambler whose signature was on the checks was withheld by police.

While the men arrested said their possession of the checks was a part of a transaction with the widely known gambler, police instituted a search for the man in the belief he may be a kidnap victim, held until the checks are honored.

CLAIM COMMUNISTS DEFEATED IN CHINA

Canton, China.—(CP)—Military announcements today credited provincial forces with having defeated Communists threatening an invasion of northern Kwangtung province.

The announcements said the outlaws had been driven northeastward into Fukien province. This word was received here with the reestablishment of communication with Shuechow, northern Kwangtung. Shuechow had been besieged several days, according to reports.

Shuechow advices asserted red forces near Nanyang, another besieged city in that area, had been scattered, relieving the threat against northern Kwangtung towns.

Advices also stated soldiers in southern Kiangsi province were continuing the capture of minor strongholds, thereby slowly breaking the Communist grip in that area. Kan chow, one of the large cities of that district, was said to be surrounded by reds, but remained secure.

IONELIS SENT TO PRISON FOR KILLING WIFE

Gets 5 to 7 Year Sentence on Second Degree Manslaughter Charge

Sheboygan.—(CP)—Anton Jonelis, Sr., 49, convicted of shooting to death his wife, Veronica, 32, at their farm home near Parnell Nov. 3, was sentenced to five to seven years in state prison by Circuit Judge Edwin Voigt today.

"Technically you were guilty of a more serious charge than second degree manslaughter of which you were convicted," Judge Voigt said. "You were leniently dealt with by the jury and the court feels the penalty should be as severe as permissible under the law."

Jonelis requested, after sentence was imposed, that he be permitted to remain at the county jail here for a day or two to visit with his five children. Judge Voigt issued a stay of execution granting the request.

"I only wanted to protect my home when I shot my wife," Jonelis said. "I was afraid I was going to lose her to another man and wasn't responsible. I only hope my children will be taken care of well until I can return and care for them myself."

Only Jonelis, attorneys in the case, and court attaches were present when sentence was read. Crowds of spectators who filled the courtroom during four days of the trial had lost interest since a jury of 12 men returned the verdict early Saturday.

Jonelis admitted shooting his wife but pleaded leniency on the ground that she had transferred her affections to a younger man, and had refused to be reconciled with him after starting action for divorce. He said he held no malice for his 16-year-old son, Anton, Jr., who testified his father repeatedly quarreled with the mother while intoxicated.

The defendant testified he shot his wife "when she refused me a kiss." He fled after the shooting but was captured in a barn in Fond du Lac.

SAY ALLIED POWERS BOUND TO CUT FORCES

New York.—(CP)—World-wide reduction of armaments as an obligation under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles was urged today by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

In a statement prepared by Elihu Root, former president of the foundation; Nicholas Murray Butler, now president, and James Brown Scott, secretary, it was said that Germany signed the treaty on the guarantee that the victorious nations as well as the defeated would unite in retrenchment, through the league of nations.

"Eleven years have elapsed since these representations were made," the statement read. "Is there not now resting upon all the peoples of the allied and associated powers (including the United States) an imperative obligation to make their representations good without further delay, and should not these obligations prevail against all technical and temporary obstacles?"

SAYS REAL MOTIVE FOR SLAYING KEPT SECRET

Detroit.—(CP)—The real motive for the killing of Jerry Buckley, fiery radio political commentator, is vastly different from the theories popularly advanced, Harry S. Toy, prosecuting attorney, said today.

The motive, Toy said, never has been revealed in public discussion of the case, but has been unsatisfied by the special grand jury which has been investigating the Buckley case and other crimes for the last 4 months. It will be made known, he said, at the trial of Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bonmarito, accused of murdering the radio announcer.

Sinclair Lewis Would Exile U. S. Would-Be Reformers

Berlin.—(CP)—If Sinclair Lewis had his way he'd exile everybody convicted of trying to reform America.

"I would exile all reformers and all suspected of a desire to reform America," he said when he arrived today on the way home after having received the Nobel prize for literature.

"No, wait a minute, that's not right," said he. "Under that scheme I'd be exiled myself. Put it like this: All reformers and all convicted of attempting reform should be exiled."

"I am certainly no reformer," the lanky American smiled. "I don't want to be one but some times I'm accused of being one. They can put me on trial and they'd have a hard time proving anything against me. I believe in reform in general but individual reformers are all hell."

Lewis was enjoying himself.

MOTHER AND TWO CHILDREN DROWN

Automobile Breaks Through Ice in Michigan—Driver Is Rescued

Escanaba, Mich.—(CP)—Automobile "ice skidding," a new sport on the northern lakes, cost the lives yesterday of a mother and two children. A man, who was driving the automobile in which they were passengers, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Elmer Klassel, 32, and her children, Eugene, 13, and Betty Jane, 4, were drowned in the icy waters of Little Bay de Noc as the automobile of Telephone Thompson, 26, a boarder in the Klassel home, went through the ice.

Thompson had invited the others to take a ride and was driving over the ice, applying his brakes for the thrill of a skid. He drove out on a smooth stretch of thin ice despite, police said, the warning cry of a skater who knew it was thin.

The rear wheels of the car sank first, and Thompson managed to crawl out of the window. The others went down in the car.

The skater, Joseph Poulin, called to his aid two fishermen, who threw to Thompson one end of the skater said Poulin had been using. They pulled him from the water unconscious and with his hands so firmly gripped on the cloth the fingers had to be pried loose.

LARGE PHILADELPHIA BANKING HOUSE CLOSED

Philadelphia.—(CP)—The Bankers Trust company of Philadelphia, one of the prominent institutions of the city, with assets of $55,000,000 was closed today by the state secretary of banking.

The bank has 19 branches scattered throughout the city, some of which came into the company through mergers of neighborhood banks within the last few years.

A statement issued by Samuel H. Barker, president of the bank, stated that the institution was closed in order to conserve the assets for the protection of depositors and stockholders. A steady seepage of deposits due to withdrawals in the last few days was given as reason for the action of the state banking department. A statement issued in September showed the bank had approximately 135,000 depositors with deposits of $45,036,592.

CUTTING RAPS LUCAS; SEES PARTY THREAT

New Mexico Senator Says Republican Organization Is in Danger

DEMANDS 'REPUDIATION'

Nye Moves to Check Lucas Statement — Norris Preparing Reply

Washington.—(CP)—Senator Cutting of New Mexico, a Republican independent, declared today that Robert H. Lucas' latest statement against Senator Norris "is not immediately repudiated by those higher up, it means that national Republican organization has ceased to exist."

"The statement signed by Mr. Lucas (executive director of the Republican national committee)," Cutting said, "calls on Republicans in the name of Lincoln, to throw out of their party the man whose attitude toward national problems is probably more closely akin to Lincoln's than that of any other man in public life today."

Lucas issued his statement yesterday. Demands have been made that he be ousted from the committee post.

The New Mexico senator, in his formal statement today, said the Republican platform of 1928 contained a promise to place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries. He added Senator Norris "has done everything in his power to live up to this Republican national pledge."

"If in that effort he has assistance from any of the men whom Mr. Lucas considers 'good Republicans,' it is certainly not a matter of record."

Regulars are Silent
The senate Republican leadership remained aloof from the controversy.

Senator Norris himself worked on a reply to Lucas who was found last week by the senate finance committee to have helped finance a campaign against Norris in the November election.

The issue of Norris' Republicanism does not come before the senate until the organization of the new senate a year hence.

Norris' vote is necessary if the Republicans are to retain control of the new senate. A year ago, after Norris had opposed against Herbert Hoover for the presidency, the senate Republicans declined to take action against him and accepted his vote on organization and Norris retained chairmanship of the judiciary committee.

Referring to the anti-injunction plank in the 1928 platform, Cutting said Norris "is now exerting every effort to bring before the senate a measure carrying out that campaign promise" and that this attempt "is being opposed by the men who call Senator Norris a bad Republican."

"The framers of the constitution," Cutting continued, "intended that congress should be the policy making branch of the government. The executive branch was created in order to carry out the laws passed by congress. Yet the gentlemen who dictated the statement which Mr. Lucas signed are serving notice on Republican senators who dare to hold views of their own that when they come up for reelection the Republican national committee will support and lend financial aid to their Democratic opponents."

"Political Thuggery"
This constitutes political thuggery. The decent element in the Republican party believed that the sort of thing had ended with the Harding regime.

No party organization can survive on such a basis."

Senator Cutting said Mr. Lucas was not a "personal issue," adding "He is merely an employee of the national Republican committee. The responsibility for his actions lies higher up. Considerably higher up."

He went on to say that the "trouble with the gentlemen whom Mr. Lucas represents is that they fail to remember that the Republican party does not belong to the president of the United States, the national chairman and a few dozen members of the national committee. It belongs to the Republican voters. It is not a part of Mr. Lucas' official functions to determine whether the Republican voters are right or wrong."

Expect Early Decision From Crime Board On Prohibition Law

FINDINGS TO REACH HOOVER BEFORE JAN. 1

Strong Expectation at Capital That Report Will Be Unanimous

Washington—(AP)—Members of the law enforcement commission expect the next few days will bring a decision on what will be written into their prohibition report.

The members, while confident they can get the recommendations before the president about Jan. 1, have not yet, according to authoritative word, reached agreement upon the principal points.

The commission apparently has decided to disregard entirely the Clark decision holding invalid the eighteenth amendment. There had been suggestions that since the decision had been placed before the supreme court by direct appeal filed last Saturday, the commission might hold up its recommendations.

As the group reassembled today it had for the first time its full membership of eleven. Judge William S. Kenyon had been held out of the city by court sessions for the past three weeks.

There was a strong expectation that the commission report would be unanimous. Some time ago it developed the members planned to append supplementary explanations of their individual positions and today it appeared hopes were entertained that all differences of opinion could be covered by these.

Another attack on ruling came yesterday from Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, who issued a statement asserting the New Jersey federal judge left it to be plainly inferred by the language of his decision that he expected his opinion to be reversed.

"Briefly stated," he said, "Judge Clark's opinion seems to hold the eighteenth amendment invalid because he prefers the convention method of amending the constitution when delegation of power to the federal government is involved.... because arguments offered in vain before the Supreme Court of the United States make an appeal to him which they did not make to that court which rejected them."

The appeal filed with the supreme court last Saturday, did not present arguments against the Clark decision. Solicitor General Clegg contended himself with stating the exceptions upon which the matter was brought for review, leaving development of the case for a later time.

It was hoped the court would set the case down for hearing the week of Jan. 19.

New Bill Is Intended To Check 'Foes'

Chicago—(AP)—Plans were under way today to make the approaching new year bring new troubles to Chicago's "public enemies."

A new state law, giving a definite legal classification to "public enemy," and providing a means of putting them, to the penitentiary, was the object of the city's anti-crime campaigners.

A bill to be known as "An Act Against Public Enemies" which will be offered in the house of the Illinois legislature, which meets in two weeks, as an emergency measure. It would make the offense of being a "public enemy" punishable as a felony, and outline the illegal acts which would bring about the "public enemy" classification. It is being drafted by James G. Condon, former assistant state's attorney, assisted by several jurists and anti-crime experts.

Offenses such as ball jumping, intimidation of witnesses, attempted jury bribing and perjury would fall within the "public enemy" classification, under the bill.

Efforts to harass "public enemies" with vagrancy prosecutions, and a judicial controversy over the question of high bonds for such offenders, attracted Condon's attention to the anti-gangster campaign problem, he said.

"I studied the vagrancy law," he added, "and discovered that the term was derived from the Latin word 'vagabundus,' a stroller. The law originally was applied in early times to strolling players who, being unable to pay for lodging at the time, were clapped into jail as vagabonds."

That view of the vagrancy law prevails today. The jurists now on the bench conceive the vagrancy law as best applicable to the wayward tramp who hasn't the money for a dollar fine. They regard it as repugnant to attempt, to apply this

AIR RACES TO BE HELD IN CLEVELAND NEXT FIVE YEARS

Conditions Favor City Above All Others, Bingham Declares

Cleveland—(AP)—The National Air races, annually the biggest sporting and educational exposition of the aeronautical industry, will be held in Cleveland each of the next five years and possibly for 10 years, it was announced here today.

Heretofore, the races have been awarded on the basis of annual competitive bids and have been held in 10 cities but only in Cleveland, Chicago and Spokane were they conducted at a profit.

The arrangements to hold the next several races in Cleveland was announced by Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic association and by L. W. Greve, president of National Air Races, Inc., of Cleveland.

Senator Bingham, in explaining the arrangement, said: "While other cities may have advantages in certain respects, all of the ideal requirements for holding the National Air races are more effectively combined in Cleveland. These include such important considerations as central location in an area of large population with demonstrated civic interest and capacity to handle the races successfully; size, accessibility and status of the airport; and cooperation of city government, metropolitan newspapers, chamber of commerce, hotels, transportation agencies and civic leaders."

The National Air Races, Inc., is the organization which underwrote and sponsored the ninth annual air races of 1929 and the Gordon Bennett International balloon race of 1930. The 1929 air races were conducted with a profit of $100,000, which has been spent to promote aeronautics.

The week or 10 days ending with Labor day probably will continue to be chosen as the time for the races each year, Mr. Greve said, because weather conditions of this period are the most likely to be ideal.

Plans will be considered at once, Mr. Greve said, for a permanent air race organization, permanent grand stands and other facilities.

Law to arch-criminals able to produce as high as $100,000 bail.

SURPRISE PARTY SURPRISES WIFE, HUSBAND AND COPS

Hammond, Ind. (AP)—It really is surprising, Mrs. J. H. Shekels may have reasoned today, how many policemen can come to a surprise party, like, for instance, the one she arranged for her husband.

It all started when Mr. Shekels came home last night, observed a light in the house, and knowing that his bride was not due back from a visit with her mother for five more days came to the most natural conclusion that all was not well within.

"Burglars," he said to himself and later to the police over a telephone from the house of a neighbor. A squad of picked officers responded. One man was stationed at each door and window before Officer Albert Richman, noted for bravery under fire entered the house cautiously, followed by Shekels on tip-toes.

"I'm surely glad my wife isn't home," he whispered, about which time the pantry door opened suddenly and a dainty figure leaped out.

"Boo!" said Mrs. Shekels, who took on look at the policeman standing in front of her—and fainted.

Winter Arrives This Morning, Says Almanac

With nothing but a thin white cap of snow to prove it in Appleton, winter blew in officially at 8:40 this morning — so the World Almanac says. Barring a few rather snappy days, and just enough snow to spoil the ice rinks occasionally, Appleton has had little winter weather so far this year, and for a time it was feared Christmas would come and go in a snowless city.

Contrary to the usual belief that the first day of winter is the shortest day of the year, the World Almanac lists 12 days all of about equal length. On Dec. 17th the sun rose and set at 4:27, giving that day nine hours and three minutes. On Dec. 28, the last short day of the 10-day period, the sun will rise at 7:29 and set nine hours and three minutes later at 4:32. The intervening days fluctuate from nine hours and three minutes long to nine hours and two minutes. Today is a 9-hour, 2 minute day.

FOOD DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM IN RUSSIA IS BEING REVAMPED

Soviet Trying to Supply More Food for Millions in Cities

Moscow (AP)—Soviet Russia is shaking down her entire food distribution system under a decree published today by the central committee of the Communist party. Its prime object, beyond removal of sabotage agents boring from within, appeared to be provision of more food for the stunted millions in areas far from agricultural centers.

The decree pillories the commissariat of internal supply, describing its work as unsatisfactory and reporting that the "meat and vegetable trusts are clogged with anti-Soviet agents, 43 of whom recently were shot."

It asserts that the cooperative agencies must be "cleaned out from top to bottom," and it details 100 trusted members of the central committee and others of the provinces under orders to reorganize the meat and vegetable supply system.

Incidentally the report lists the Soviet cooperative society's trade turnover for 1930 at about 12,000,000,000 rubles, approximately $6,000,000,000, which was 68 per cent of the year's total internal trade. The basic capital of the society in 1930 was 1,600,000,000 rubles over and above 996,000,000 rubles which belongs to the workers.

In spite of its achievements, however, the cooperative system "has not yet abolished bureaucracy and the spirit of private trade," the decree asserts declaring that the "cooperatives must establish such forms of food distribution as will correspond with the general problems of socialist construction. The class principle in distribution must be enforced more vigorously and distribution of products must help to stimulate and encourage socialist forms of labor."

This last means in effect that only those who work and give whole-souled cooperation to the Communist policies will eat.

The central committee endorsed the principle of the "closed shop," an establishment at which only the

ACTIVE MARKET IS HELD BY COLUMBIA GAS SECURITIES

Corporation Is One of Largest Distributors in Country

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press

(This is the thirteenth article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York — The securities of Gas and Electric Corporation, a holding company and one of the largest distributors of gas, natural and artificial, enjoy a active market. It is unnecessary to discuss the bonds, all of which have investment rank in varying degrees. The same is true of the two issues of preferred stock, both of which are of $100 par, one paying 6 per cent and one paying 5 per cent, the former yielding about 5.7 per cent and the latter 5.4 per cent at the market. Dividends on these are protected by a wide margin, but call prices limit market price appreciation.

The common stock, of no par value, outstanding to the amount of 11,675,097 shares fluctuates over a wide range amounting in 1930 to more than 50 points. The present dividend rate is $2 annually which, because of the prevailing business depression, is not being covered will much to spare. In the first six months of 1930 net for the common was equivalent to $1.17 a share.

The market, however, looks not alone to current earnings but to the future and especially to the prospect of expansion in the natural gas field. The corporation plans, it is understood, to extend its activities in this line into the eastern seaboard states. How profitably this may work out remains to be seen but it provides speculative attrac-

AWARD CONTRACT FOR GRADING OVERHEAD

Madison (AP)—A contract for grading and draining the approaches to the Kewaunee overhead on state highway 17 between Kewaunee and Rostok has been approved by Gov. Walter Kohler. The Krueger Construction Co., Algoma, will do the work for $24,178.09. The governor also awarded a contract of $550.89 to William Sweeney, Green Bay, for the extension of a culvert at the Northern Hospital for the Insane in Winnebago county.

tion to the common stock. Besides its gas interests the corporation does a large electric light and power business and through the Columbia Oil and Gasoline Corporation is engaged in that industry. Over the longer term the outlook for all these activities is favorable and granted a reasonably good market share-holders can expect rights to furnish new capital on attractive terms. In 1927 and again in 1929 such rights were given with a market valuation in the first case of around $3 a share and in the second case of from $4 to $7 a share. In March of 1930 a 25 per cent common stock dividend was paid.

President Hoover Signs $150,000,000 Farm Board Fund Bill

RELIEF PLANS ARE PASSED BY CONGRESS

Two Weeks Christmas Recess Started — Rough Road Still Ahead

BULLETIN
Washington (AP)—President Hoover today signed the bill appropriating $150,000,000 for the farm board. Congress enacted the appropriation Saturday. It brings to $400,000,000 the amount made available from the $500,000,000 authorized for the board's revolving fund.

Washington (AP)—The administration's emergency relief program is now law and congress is off on two weeks Christmas holiday, but trouble signs still mark the road to final adjustment.

The tasks disposed of last Saturday night, after arduous work and bitter debate, formed the portion of the congressional program for which peaceful and speedy accomplishment had been hoped. Virtually all obstacles seen a month ago as potential causes of an extra session of the next congress in the spring, remain to be tackled.

It is the senate that is causing leaders to worry as they count upon the house to do down the line for the administration. While the executive branch of government moved today to put into effect the expenditures for employment approved by congress, the legislative leaders cast about for means of averting a deadlock on the next steps of the congressional program.

Some of the Republican senate stemsters are convinced the greatest aid to a completing the program would be a formal assurance by President Hoover that he will not call a special session of the senate for consideration of world court adherence. From the White House Saturday came informal word that the president would not ask such a session, but any satisfaction gained by foes of the court was not readily measurable.

Bills Passed This Far
The accomplishments of congress so far are limited virtually to passage of the $115,000,000 emergency public works appropriation; the $45,000,000 authorization for loans to farmers of the drought states; the $150,000,000 farm board appropriation; and approval by the senate of the five members of the new power commission.

The billion dollar treasury-postoffice supply bill is in conference for the supply bill, the senate having refused to back down on amendments rejected by the house. The interior and agriculture supply measures have been passed by the house but not by the senate. The Muscle Shoals deadlock between the two houses has not been broken although the gap has been narrowed considerably, and leaders hope to put through an agreement.

The immediate tasks upon reconvening Jan. 5 are: For the senate, consideration of the president's six nominees to the tariff commission, and the serving under recess appointments. For the house, consideration of the Vestal bill making extensive changes in the copyright system.

The emphasis of the leaders' efforts, however, will remain on the 11 essential supply bills, key to the extra session situation. It is expected that other groups will make strenuous efforts to enact further unemployment relief legislation. Consideration is to be given also to plans for suspending immigration for a period of years in the interests of American labor.

PROPOSES 8-HOUR DAY FOR HIGHWAY EMPLOYEES

Madison (AP)—An eight-hour day and a minimum wage of 45 cents an hour are proposed for employees on state and county highway projects under a bill to be introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Elbert J. Gesicki, Merrill.

The assemblyman-elect also said he will seek legislation closing the deer season for three years and opening each season five days earlier. His bill regarding deer seasons would permit the shooting of does as well as bucks. Licensed fur farms would be permitted to trap throughout the year and inmates of the state prison would be used in the manufacture of traps. If two other bills contemplated by Mr. Gesicki are enacted into law.

ONCE NOTED STAGE STAR DIES IN WEST

Flo Irwin, Actress for 52 Years, Summoned in Los Angeles

Los Angeles (AP)—Flo Irwin, for 52 years an actress, has answered her final cue.

Death came yesterday to Miss Irwin, who with her sister Mary was known to theatre audiences of three nations as early as the 80's. The death interrupted plans of the famous vaudeville team for a reunion this Christmas.

Miss Irwin, 71, had lived in retirement in a modest home here three years, known to neighbors only as a "nice old lady, who spoke now and then of the stage."

Police surgeons said she died of a heart attack, brought on by excitement incident to her sister's promised visit. Mary Irwin, enroute here from New York, will arrange the funeral.

The Irwin sisters were born in Whitley, Ontario, Canada, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell. They made their first appearance in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1876. Two years later they were "discovered" by Tony Pastor, old-time producer.

Pastor booked them in "The Rural Strain," in which they played at his famous old "show-house" at 555 Broadway for two years.

At the completion of the run the sisters separated, but joined again in 1888 to play in "Home Rule" at Boston.

In vaudeville, legitimate plays and musical comedies, Flo Irwin played in theatres in nearly every city in the United States and Canada. In her heyday she spent three years on English stages.

Little is known here of Miss Irwin's private life. She told neighbors she had been married twice, and that one of her former husbands was a New York senator. She is survived by a married daughter living in Chicago. The daughter is known to Miss Irwin's friends only as "Madeline."

MAYOR GETS LETTERS ON GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Two letters dealing with garbage disposal systems were received Monday morning by Mayor John Goodland Jr.

A communication from the city of Madison described that city's experience with both incineration and garbage disposal via the hogery method, and compared the costs of the two. Madison operated an incinerator plant until 1918, when it was discontinued at the request of the government. Now all Madison garbage is hauled to a large hog farm.

A letter from the state board of health stated that the two most popular methods of garbage disposal used in the state are incineration and hogs. The first is favored by the board as the most strictly sanitary, though hog farms are approved if they are as sanitary and as economical. A list of regulations governing the operation of a hog farm used for garbage disposal was included in the state letter.

NEW CORPORATIONS IN STATE IN 1930 TOP NORMAL YEAR

Madison (AP)—Although the number of new corporations established in Wisconsin this year fell below that of 1929, it was greater than that of the "normal" year of 1928, it was learned here today from the secretary of state.

For the fiscal year ending Dec. 1, 1930, there were 1772 new corporations, 794 amendments and 235 for corporations filed with the state corporation division. During the previous year, 2136 new corporations filed papers while 958 amendments were filed. The number of foreign corporations licensed last year was 375.

The secretary of state reported $381,018.95 in fees in the corporation division for the last fiscal year, divided as follows: new corporations, $168,468.25; amendments, $55,604; foreign corporations, $17,542; miscellaneous, $35,404.70. In 1929 more than $350,000 was collected in fees.

In 1928 fees coming from 1675 new corporations, 815 amendments, 300 foreign corporations and miscellaneous sources totalled $270,299.82. With the exception of 1929, the year 1930 was the greatest in the history of the state from the standpoint of the number of new corporations. A decade ago 1,908 new corporations, 1,388 amendments and 233 foreign corporations were filed with the secretary of state.

In the past two years two items alone were responsible for $200,000 in fees. In 1929 the North Western railroad paid $100,000, for permission to increase its capital stock $100,000,000 and in the last fiscal year the Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation paid a filing fee of $100,000 for incorporating with an authorized capital stock of $100,000,000.

Of the 1772 new corporations formed in the last fiscal year, 1586 were stock corporations and 186 were non-stock, non-profit sharing corporations. Of the 794 amendments filed, 736 were filed by stock corporations and 58 by non-stock corporations.

There were 1826 foreign corporations and 16,154 Wisconsin stock corporations in good standing on Dec. 1, 1930. Of the latter, 403 were telephone corporations and 917 cooperative associations.

Failure to comply with the law providing for the filing of an annual report with the secretary of state will cost approximately 850 Wisconsin corporations their corporate rights and privileges on Jan. 1, 1931. Ninety-four foreign corporations forfeited their licenses on May 1, 1930 for failure to file an annual report.

During the past fiscal year, 390 Wisconsin corporations were dissolved and 124 foreign corporations surrendered their licenses. Delinquent reports were filed by 479 corporations and 35 Wisconsin corporations had forfeiture of corporate rights rescinded. Five foreign corporations had forfeiture of licenses rescinded.

Approximately 42,000 corporations have been formed in Wisconsin since the beginning of territorial days, the secretary of state said. Of these, approximately 1600 were formed by special legislative enactment. About 750 were railroad corporations and some 800 were telephone corporations. More than 850 were filed under the statutes providing for the incorporation of Catholic churches.

Wisconsin Weather
Unsettled tonight and Tuesday, possibly light snow tonight; no decided change in temperature.

Unsettled, cloudy weather, with occasional light snow, prevails over the upper Mississippi valley and the upper lakes this morning. Heavier snowfall occurred over the lower lakes region and the St. Lawrence valley during the past 24 hours. Snow and rain also fell over the southwestern gulf states, with Abilene, Texas, reporting three inches of snow and a morning temperature of 16 degrees. Intense high pressure and continued cold weather prevails over the entire west and southwest, but temperatures are above normal over the far northwest, due to low pressure which overlies that region. Cloudy, with occasional snowflurries, is expected here tonight, with mostly fair and little change in temperature Tuesday.

Holiday Spirit Holds Sway Over Washington

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent Washington Society Editor)

Washington—With the Army-Navy football game and the Gridiron dinner at one end and Christmas almost at the other last week resolved itself into a headlong rush and an endurance test.

Wisconsin was well represented at the thrilling Army-Navy game by General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, and Rep. and Mrs. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee. However, its most important representative was young Midshipman Lewis Kim of Milwaukee, who has been doing such a grand job at right half-back for the Navy all year. It was Kim who was just able to touch Army's dashing Stecker as he swept over the line for the lone score of the game. With a little more speed and a lot more luck, Kim might have been the hero of a scoreless tie game.

Wisconsin was also present at the Gridiron dinner, at which President Hoover was guest of honor, in the persons of Governor Walter Kohler and Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr.

President and Mrs. Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin arrived in the National Capital at the beginning of the week for a three-day social round.

Joseph E. Davies, formerly of Madison, entertained at a stag dinner Monday night in honor of President Frank and Mrs. Davies entertained at luncheon for Mrs. Frank, Tuesday, at the National Woman's Country club.

Among Mrs. Davies' luncheon guests were Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the Senator from Idaho; Mrs. Hiram Bingham, wife of the Senator from Connecticut; Mrs. James I. Davis, wife of the Senator from Pennsylvania; and Mrs. John Marshall.

Miss Elizabeth Patterson, of the famous old Patterson family of Washington, honored President and Mrs. Frank at tea Monday and again at dinner, Tuesday night. Her guests at the tea included Mrs. Henry Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Lee Washington, the Phil Shermans, and her two nieces, Miss Mary and Miss Helen Winslow. The Misses Winslow, who poured for her.

The Misses Winslow are sisters of Carlisle Winslow, head of the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison.

Wednesday, Mrs. Frank was entertained at luncheon at the Capital by Mrs. John J. Blaine, wife of Senator Blaine of Bosconet.

Mrs. Blaine's other guests were all Senatorial wives—Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Mrs. Gerald F. Nye, and Mrs. George Norris. After lunch, they went to the Senate gallery to hear the debate on the maternity and infancy bill.

Wednesday evening, President and Mrs. Frank were among the guests attending the dinner given by Alanson Houghton, former ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Houghton in honor of St. Ronald Lindsay, ambassador from Great Britain, and Lady Lindsay.

The marriage of Miss Mary Aloise Emery of Washington to Vincent Engels of Green Bay, Wis., took place in the National Capital December 13.

The wedding, at the brides home, was small and only members of the immediate family were present. A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony.

Miss Patricia Emery was her sister's only attendant and Charles de Barry of New York acted as best man for Mr. Engels.

Mr. and Mrs. Engels left for New York after the breakfast and then sailed for a honeymoon in the tropics.

Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca are among the many distinguished patrons of the weekly diplomatic motion pictures presented on Sunday evenings by the Bureau of Commercial Economics at the new Shoreham hotel. Last Sunday, they attended the film, which was a travelogue of the cabeship, Delwood. Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley was guest of honor at the performance.

Friday, Mrs. Browne served as one of the hostesses at the regular Friday afternoon tea of the congressional club.

Dr. and Mrs. Deles O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton, left Washington Friday and spent that weekend with their daughter, Mrs. Burgess Seamonson, in Crown Point, Ind. From Crown Point, they went on to Stoughton for the holidays with another daughter, Mrs. Alvin Lovrud. They hoped to visit Appleton and Whitewater but their plans were not certain when they left. They expect to return about January 6 for the reopening of American University, where Dr. Kinsman is head of the Economics Department.

LEAVE FOR HOLIDAYS
Dr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh, formerly of Green Bay, are expected to spend a few days in Washington during the Christmas season. They are now living in Williamsburg, Va., where Dr. Marsh is connected with the University of William and Mary.

Mrs. Frances Burgess of La Crosse, a student at the King-Smith Studio School here; Miss Betty Orth and Miss Adella Beebe, both of Milwaukee and both students at Holton Arms, left early for their vacations, starting for home on December 13. Miss Burgess will return about January 8.

PFISTER AND VOGEL TO QUIT BUSINESS

Large Leather Concern Will Abandon Operations at End of Year

Milwaukee (AP)—The Pfister and Vogel leather company, once one of the best known and largest independent tanning companies in America, will go out of business about Jan. 1, Fred Vogel, Jr., president, announced today.

The business, which started in the little leather shop of Guido Pfister on Market-st. and the 150-hides-per-day tannery opened by Fred Vogel on the south side of the Menomonee river here nearly 100 years ago, and grew into an institution handling 80,000 hides daily, has been losing money for several years.

When more than $2,000,000 worth of obligations came due last Nov. 1, they were paid in full. But the Vogel family, holding practically all of the stock, has decided to take no more losses, Mr. Vogel said.

"We are offering for sale our tannery," he said, "and will sell or rent that part of our real estate not needed to conduct the tannery business. The Boston branch will be closed Dec. 31; the English branch at Leicester has been sold to the employees and the Frankfurt branch has also been closed. We will continue our New York branch until our finished merchandise is sold."

He explained that contrary to other lines of manufacture, where mass production methods have resulted in production economies, the tanning business has seen a trend more toward the small producer because, principally, of the demand for varicolored leather. The large producer cannot change colors quickly, and, handling 3,000 to 4,000 hides daily, could not afford to make overnight changes in colors without running the risk of having huge stocks on hand.

He recalled the days when there were but two colors for shoes — black and brown.

At one time the several Pfister and Vogel factories here employed 3,000 persons.

START COLLECTION OF TAXES TODAY

Dr. V. F. Marshall Again First Resident to Pay City Treasurer

The city treasurer's office changed Monday morning from a quiet, orderly place of business to something that resembled the floor of a stock exchange or the area around a bag game counter. When the doors opened at 9 o'clock this morning a long line of taxpayers was waiting to relieve itself of its accumulated savings, and throughout the rest of the morning, Fred Bachman, treasurer, and his helpers were busy taking in money, answering questions, and giving out tax totals.

Dr. V. F. Marshall was the first to pay his taxes. He also was the first last year.

Dog licenses, which have been reduced this year to $1 for males and $2 for females, can be paid now at the treasurer's office.

The office will be open for the collection of taxes from 9 to 12 and from 1:15 to 4 o'clock each day. By vote of the common council there will be no extension of tax time this year. Taxes not paid by Jan. 31 will draw a one per cent penalty during February, and a two per cent fee after March 1.

SEND MAN TO JAIL FOR DRUNKENNESS

Lawrence Hagoney, Kaukauna, was sent to the county jail for two days by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he was unable to pay a fine of $10 and costs for drunkenness. The judge imposed a prison sentence of only two days so that Hagoney would not have to be in jail over Christmas. Hagoney was arrested at Kaukauna yesterday by Police Chief R. H. McCarty.

of the Czechoslovakian legation entertained at a card party for Mrs. Noiz.

Wednesday, Mrs. Noiz attended the commemoration of the centenary of the death of Simon Bolivar, at Georgetown University. Throughout the city, it was a day of celebration and honor to the great man of South America. A number of United States troops paraded and were reviewed in front of the Pan-American Union and flags were displayed generally about the city.

The flags puzzled some who had never heard of Bolivar, for A. J. Johnston of Madison, visiting here, inquired of the hotel doorman, "What are all the flags for?"

Doorman: "Oh, I dunno. Somebody died in Brazil."

Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine had a busy week but hopes for a quiet Christmas.

She was a guest Monday at the huge luncheon given by Mrs. Harry K. Gann, state next to the honor given and had a lovely chat.

Sunday, Rep. and Mrs. Cooper were guests at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg. Thursday, she attended a luncheon given by Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the Senator-elect from Tennessee, and was also a guest at the White House musicale following the dinner for the vice president Thursday. Friday, she attended Mme. Wu's tea at the Chinese embassy.

Dr. Lowell Joseph Ragatz, formerly of Madison, was one of an enthusiastic audience attending the George Washington University musical comedy Saturday. "Good Gracious Godfrey" was its title, and it was good and the audience, gracious.

Mrs. Anderson attended a tea for members of the Women's Guild of the University, of which she is president. Friday, Miss Mary Louise Brown, formerly of Appleton and now dean of women at American University, presided at the tea table.

Dr. William F. Noiz, formerly of Watertown, who has been traveling and lecturing abroad for about a month, is probably now at Kiel and will soon sail for home. He will not return in time for Christmas, so Mrs. Noiz and little Ellen, Natalie, and William, are saving their celebration until the 27th or 28th. It will be a rather lonesome Christmas Day at the Noiz home, for "Who," asks Natalie, "can play our Christmas carols for us?"

The night that Dr. Noiz was to arrive in Czechoslovakia, members

Believe Bone Fragments Of Mastodon Or Mammoth

The gigantic bone fragments recently found at the Sherwood stone quarry belong to an extinct mammoth or mastodon of the glacial period, according to Dr. Rufus Mather Bagg of Lawrence college geological department, who has completed a study of the remains.

"Which of these elephantine forms these bones represent cannot be determined until the teeth or tusks are unearthed in the deposit," Dr. Bagg said. "That this is quite likely to occur is evident from the fact that the huge pile of rock and earth now fallen from the cliff in which the bones were embedded has not yet been removed. The amount of broken rock and fallen debris is so great it will require weeks to entirely remove the stone."

"An examination of the locality where the remains were discovered indicates that the mammoth was wandering near the cliff border and fell into a fissure opening or perhaps may have perished at the very margin of this rock ledge and before erosion and weathering had destroyed the body the whole mass rolled over in avalanche fashion, deeply burying the remains and thus preserving them for thousands of years."

"They are rather badly composed but appear to be fragments which belong to the knee joint, the end being too badly eroded to state now what part of the skeleton they represent. If more can be found then we can decipher these and if the teeth can be discovered the genu of the elephant can be known."

"It is of course more likely that the animal belonged to the hairy mammoth as the mastodon was not only plentiful but became extinct earlier."

"The large pieces of native copper from Keweenaw Point, found 20 feet below the surface in a gravel fissure just back of the bone location indicates that this dropped from the fissure openings when glacial ice was moving over the region. It is possible, however, that these slabs of copper were carried on to the cliff ledge by the Indians for dwelling in the region along Lake Winnebago's east shore but they have nothing to do with the mammoth discovery and are most likely to be accounted for as accidental burial in these surface fissures and joint planes which are very wide and deep."

"It will be interesting to learn whether later digging does not reveal the ribs, vertebrae and perhaps the teeth of this monster which will reveal its generic position."

GIRL SCOUTS TO DISTRIBUTE TOYS TO POOR PERSONS

After weeks of patching, pasting, and painting, Girl Scout will distribute their lot of repaired toys, mended clothes and collected foods to Appleton's poor families Tuesday afternoon.

The Shamrock troop will hold a Christmas party at the Appleton Woman's club from 5:30 to 7:30 Monday evening. There will be a supper and an exchange of gifts.

Wildrose and Hiawatha troops and Brownie pack No. 3 held their Christmas parties Saturday afternoon. The Episcopal church group had its party at the church last Tuesday.

HEAD OF ARTILLERY GETS COAT OF ARMS

Regimental Insignia of 331st Division Added to Bishop's Collection

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—The 331st Field Artillery at Chicago, which during the World War was principally composed of soldiers from Wisconsin, has added its brilliant coat of arms to the collection which decorates the walls of the office of the Chief of Field Artillery, Major General Harry G. Bishop.

Wisconsin's part in the service of the 331st Field Artillery is commemorated in the gold badge on the coat of arms. The framed coat of arms for Major General Bishop's office is beautifully colored and of fine workmanship. The field is red for artillery, and the palette is taken from the arms of Chicago, and represents the Chicago river and its two branches, but is reversed, because the Chicago river at present flows backwards because of the operation of the drainage canal.

In addition to the gold badge to commemorate the Wisconsin fight there is a gold lion—face from the arms of the Province of Guienne and a fleur-de-lis, both in memory of service in France. The motto of the 331st is Pecunius Et Facinus, we have achieved, we do achieve.

The 331st was organized at Camp Grant, Illinois, in 1917 as a unit of the 86th Division and sent overseas. After the war it was disbanded but in February, 1922 was reconstituted as part of the 86th division with headquarters at Chicago.

Lieutenant Colonel Edward N. Wentworth of the 331st presented the coat of arms to General Bishop. So Wisconsin's golden badge joins the emblems of 25 Regular Army, one National Guard, and three organized Reserve Field Artillery units' coats of arms, in the General's office.

RYKOFF NOW HAS NO POSITION IN PARTY'S COUNCILS

Relieved of Place on Politbureau as Well as on Sovnarkum

Moscow—(AP)—Alexis Ivanovich Rykoff, shorn of his post in the Soviet government scheme, today was without a place in high Communist party councils, where he has been a powerful figure from the days of his intimate association with Nicolai Lenin.

When Friday he was relieved of his place as president of the Sovnarkum, or union council of people's commissars, it was commented that so long as he retained his place on the Politbureau, or political bureau of the party he was still a powerful figure, but Sunday the party's central committee and central control commission relieved him of that place too.

It is believed that although he is bereft of actual power, the party directorate, led by Joseph Stalin, secretary-general, will use him and others of the right wing opposition at other tasks in the socialization of the union, since Rykoff particularly is regarded as one of the most capable men of Russia.

As a member of the Politbureau, M. Rykoff held a greater potential power than as president of the council of people's commissars, a post comparable to that of premier in parliamentary governments. In the days of Lenin the latter post had a real power but in recent years the central executive committee, whose president is Michael Kalinin, and its praesidium, assumed primacy.

Shorn of Influence

But behind even the central executive committee and its praesidium there has been the powerful Politbureau, where the problems of Communism actually are thrashed out. Rykoff, removed from the Politbureau, has been consigned to political limbo, temporarily at least.

His place on the Politbureau goes to the man who some time ago replaced him as head of the commissariat of labor and defense, sometimes called the supreme economic council, Grigori Ordjonikidze. In another change in the Politbureau Andrei A. Andreev, recently appointed chairman of the central control commission, is relieved from his deputy membership in the Politbureau.

Vladislav Molotov, appointed as president of the council of commissars to succeed Rykoff, is relieved of his duties as a secretary of the communist party.

In the supreme economic council three vice chairmen, one of them Michael Tomsky, another right wing Communist, have been relieved of their posts. Of all the right wing advocates only Bucharin is left in a place of power, a place on the central executive committee and the supreme economic council. There is general expectation that he too will soon go the way of Rykoff, Tomsky and others.

GRANNIES' CLUB

London—Grandmothers have formed a club here to get together and exchange gossip of days gone by. About 100 of them are banded in the Grandmothers' Club and at its weekly meetings members of the club have teas and cakes, and talk. There was a rule that none could be a member under 65, but so many young grandmothers of 40 have been asking for admission that the rule was lifted.

GUARD NEGRO FROM VIOLENCE BY MOB

Suspect in Murder of School Teacher Taken to Another Jail

Kansas City—(AP)—Fears for the safety of Raymond Gunn, Negro teacher charged with the murder of Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old rural school teacher, today led Buchanan-co officers to bring the prisoner here for safekeeping.

The officers, fearing further violence from a mob which early yesterday unsuccessfully attempted to deliver the prisoner, spirited Gunn from the Buchanan-co jail where he has been confined since his arrest at Maryville, Mo., his home, Gunn was brought here by sheriff's officers and St. Joseph policemen and locked in the Jackson-co jail.

As the prisoner was taken from his cell police dispersed a group of 25 persons who had gathered in the courthouse yard. No threats were made and they fled away without resistance. Shortly before midnight officers had been warned that men were gathering at Pumpkin Center a filling station 20 miles north of here.

The mob of 150 persons which stormed the jail early yesterday, was disbanded by deputy sheriffs, policemen, city firemen and members of a national guard tank company. The mob was said to have been composed of men from Maryville, the teacher's home town, and from other towns in the vicinity. The extra forces were withdrawn from the jail after standing on guard all night.

Stratton Siartel, attorney general, went from here to St. Joseph yesterday seeking to determine if Gunn was connected with other crimes among them Omaha, Neb., ax murders. Gunn denied he ever had been in the Nebraska city. He was released from the Missouri State penitentiary in January, 1928, after serving a term on a statutory charge.

BANK ROBBERIES AND STATE POLICE

The experience of Outagamie county with bank robberies and hold-ups, at least a dozen in as many years, should cause the people of this community to become intense partisans of a state police system. Of all the bandits who operated in this county in the last ten or twelve years only five, including two rank amateurs, have been captured. One man arrested in another state confessed robbing a bank in this county and two others, arrested in connection with alleged crimes elsewhere, finally were sentenced for robberies here. In no instance, however, except for the two amateurs, were the arrests made directly in connection with or immediately following banditry in this county.

The reason for this impotency of law enforcement officers is primarily that all the advantages of organization, transportation and armament are with the bandits. Most of the hold-ups in this county bore the earmarks of professionals who struck according to a pre-conceived plan and followed a definite route for their escape, a route that took them away from the immediate vicinity of their crime with utmost speed, knowing that there was no statewide organization that could be relied upon to stop them.

A well organized and carefully supervised county police, of course would be of some value in heading off escaping bandits, but they become more impotent as the distance from the scene of the robbery increases. What is needed then is a state organization that can converge from all points of the compass toward the raided bank, closing in on highway and by-way so that every means of escape is cut off.

Bank robberies and other crimes against property which offer the bait of easy money to the criminal minded cannot possibly be regarded as local or county problems. Rarely indeed do bandits assault banks in the immediate vicinity of their homes or do they hide near the scene of their crime. In the vast majority of cases they are criminals from a distant city who strike suddenly in some unprotected spot and, aided by fast cars and heavy armament, speed back to the security of the big towns. They use the entire state for a hunting ground and all the highways are their avenues of escape. By the time the home authorities are notified they are well outside the county and on their way to Chicago or other out of the state points.

But it is a long way from Outagamie county to either Illinois or the Minnesota state lines and there is plenty of time for well organized state police, working from a central office, to block the highways leading to the state lines and make escape impossible or extremely difficult.

The mere fact that such an organization exists, equipped with transportation and arms at least equal to that possessed by the bandits, will serve as a deterrent to criminals who now regard Wisconsin and especially this section of Wisconsin, as their happy hunting ground. There will be some hesitation about attacking a bank or other property if the criminal knows there is at least an equal chance that he will be caught.

A county patrol of mounted police, to supplement and work with a state organization, no doubt will add to the security of life and property, but county police alone offer little protection against marauding criminals who strike so suddenly that the local police force can hardly get started. Vigilantes and organized committees of armed citizens are even more impotent. The only organization that can possibly be effective must be state wide, under such control that it can be sent anywhere at a moment's notice. Only a state mounted police fits that category.

Outagamie county residents, with the experience of robberies in Black Creek, Oneida, Shiocton, Dale, Greenville, Appleton, Kaukauna, Nichols and Kimberly in the last twelve years, are in a position of knowing what they are talking about when they discuss the hazards of banditry. Their experience clearly indicates that if there is to be any real progress toward preventing assaults against their properties and their lives a police force of sufficient size and mobility to operate all over the state must be organized.

MONUMENTS TO HATE

Shall there be wrought into deathless stone over the entrance to the magnificent library of Lovain, Belgium, the legend "Destroyed by Teutonic fury, restored by American generosity?" That is the question that has been bothering the Belgians, their courts and other peoples too. Would such an inscription act or tend to act as a deterrent upon any future occasion for a repetition of the destruction visited upon Belgium? Or would it more likely tend rather to preserve old animosities, pass them down from father to son through the generations and thus create a condition pregnant with more fury and bitterness?

The hatreds engendered by war are terrific during the heat of combat. As time passes the intensity of these feelings gradually diminishes, so that even those who were active participants, who themselves pass through the horrors imposed upon mankind, whose homes were even destroyed, eventually begin to forget, and with forgetting, forgive.

In the World war no nation perhaps had more justification for intense feelings than Belgium. Situated as it was in the path of advancing armies, which were impelled by tumultuous and overwhelming events to disregard anything but ultimate results, it found its sacred treaties violated, its lands overrun, its cities and villages in the grip of military hosts, and its people thrown suddenly into the maelstrom of war.

The quoted inscription was determined upon too soon after the catastrophe, else it might have been written merely "Restored by American generosity." The University of Lovain has decided that the building should not carry the original proposed inscription on the ground that it would foster permanent hatred between the peoples of Belgium and Germany. The American architect Warren is carrying through the Belgian courts his insistence that the original plan should not be altered. A court of appeals has just decided against him. He proposes to go further. In so doing he is exhibiting more impetuosity than good judgment. If the Belgians are willing to forget why shouldn't the architect? Monuments to man's achievements, whether in peace or on the field of battle, are beacon lights on the road of human progress, but the perpetuation of his hatreds and animosities can be of no assistance to the otherwise kindly and mellowing influence of time.

CHRISTMAS IN RUSSIA

Santa Claus is refused admittance at the Russian frontiers. This grand old man of our childhood fancy is not permitted to roam through the land spreading his message of "peace on earth, good-will toward men."

The intolerable suppression by the Soviet government of any expression by the people of natural instincts ingrained in their hearts through generations of Christian teachings and beliefs, is one of the unfortunate conditions prevailing in that country.

What a tragedy it is for those Russian people, who have the spirit of Christ in their hearts, to be compelled to worship their God by stealth. How thankful should men be for the good-will and peace on earth exemplified by the democracy and religious freedom of our country.

If That Much

There was a fire in the motor of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh's plane last Friday, and it made the front page in any man's newspaper. And Lindy has a crumple on his face after sitting out the blaze. Then, a couple of days ago, the Prince of Wales had a chill. They put Edward to bed, called the doctor and notified the papers. That's fame for you.

As the Kitchen Cynic remarked, "My house could burn down and me in it, and the best I could get would be a few lines in the obituary notices."

They put Lindbergh and Admiral Byrd in the British "Who's Who," but they neglected to put Lindbergh's father-in-law in the darned book. But papa Morrow ran for a senator's job and that may have something to do with it. By the way, they forgot to put us in. Can't understand it. Gonna write a letter to somebody about it. Tsk, tsks.

While Poppa Worries About the Market

Now comes the season of pictures from Florida showing Mrs. Whoozie van Giltedge and her two lovely children basking on the beach at Miami.

The almighty New York boxing commission told Bert Maxie Schmeling that he had to agree to fight and get his agreement agreed within the next fifteen days. So Maxie coolly wired them to see his manager Joe Jacobs. But according to the N. Y. comish, Joe isn't Maxie's manager. You figure it out. Anyway, Maxie may be yelling "foul" again pretty soon.

And while boxing may or may not belong to the category of athletics, we are at least reminded of that subject and the fact that Glenn Thistlethwaite will be retained at Wisconsin next year. To out him would be the equivalent of junking a new, high priced car simply because you had a flat tire.

Big-time publishers have moved the prices of popular books back up to their former prices after having experimented with a dollar price for a time. According to Tillie, that's quite alright since she has a book anyway.

E. A. ROBINSON'S BIRTH

On Dec. 22, 1869, Edward Arlington Robinson, one of the most famous of contemporary American poets, was born at Head Tide, Me.

After two years at Harvard, Robinson went to New York. Here he struggled with poverty and for a time worked in a subway. He leaped into prominence in 1897 when a poem, "The Children of the Night," attracted the attention of Theodore Roosevelt. Since then his fame has grown rapidly.

Robinson's work, as one critic wrote, is "intellectual, sincere in feeling, distinctively American in tone and point of view, and free from all that is trivial and meaningless." Amy Lowell called Robinson the most remarkable of living American poets.

A member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, Robinson's outstanding works to date include: "The Man Against the Sky," "Merlin," "Lancelot," "The Children of the Night," and "Tristram."

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

KEEP YOUR DISTANCE AND ENJOY YOUR HEALTH

A famous bacteriologist authority named Flügge showed the importance of droplet infection. He proved too, that there is practically no risk of contracting tuberculosis by the inhalation of dust. Bacteriologists working under Flügge's direction produced tuberculosis in guinea pigs by causing the animals to breathe directly in front of the mouth of a person with tuberculosis while the person was coughing. When the pigs were not brought nearer than 40 inches to the mouth of such person they did not contract the disease. But they were almost invariably infected if they were held within a foot or two from the mouth while the tuberculosis patient coughed.

Another good authority, Winslow, first sprayed the mouth and throat of a man with a culture of bacillus prodigiosus, which is harmless, but gives a distinctive red growth on culture media. Then the man spoke loudly for half an hour. Then 140 liters of air were taken from various points in the room. The B. prodigiosus was found only seven times. Another type of germ called streptococcus salivarius, a normal or inhabitant of the mouth, was not found at all in 74 liters of air examined. In similar tests Robinson did find S. salivarius in some cultures from the air of the room where the man spoke. But these authorities concluded that their observations tended to support the conviction that aerial infection of any sort is a minor factor in the spread of disease.

But not particularly that the guinea pigs escaped infection when they were not brought closer than a meter—about 40 inches—to the face of the person with the disease.

You can't apply guinea pig facts to human life—and that is why our state's prisoners should be turned over to medical science for experimental use—but I think it is perfectly logical and safe to assume that, so long as one can contrive to keep more than four feet from the face of one's vis-a-vis, one is not likely to catch whatever the vis-a-vis may happen to have in the way of a respiratory infection.

Many tests by other bacteriologists have fairly well shown that the droplets of moisture given off from the nose and mouth in the form of visible or invisible fine spray when one coughs will carry 10 or 12 feet. The range of the spray in sneezing is the same. In talking the range is lowered to four feet or less.

Everybody understands that kissing on the mouth is a very likely way to contract any communicable disease which is transmissible through the nose, throat or mouth. The next best way is to conduct a Weber and Fields chat with the person who has the disease or is perhaps just coming down with it. Younger readers may not know what Weber and Fields means. Old timers will recall how the two famous comedians carried on their endless arguments at such close quarters that they frequently had to wipe an eye and beg one another not to splash so.

These days the individual who perpetuates a sneeze or a cough without first carefully covering his nose and mouth is likely to be thrown out of the shop, hall or conveyance on his neck. But conversational spray is still good form and you have to take your chance in it. Remember it carries less than five feet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

They Might Call Themselves Dentists
Your little propaganda to persuade dentists to relinquish the professional use of the title "Doctor" seems to have stirred up something like a hornet's nest in some quarters. In view of the fine work you have done for years in educating the public in dental hygiene and the importance of regular visits to regular dentists, I think the profession has shown poor taste in receiving your suggestion so resentfully. I for one would be glad to relinquish the title. It makes little difference to me or my work, as I see it, whether you call me "Doctor" or "Miser" (L. W. D. M. D.)

Answer—Thank you doctor. I propose the title of Dentor for dentists. That's better for their professional interest than "Doctor" is. I'm not going to call any dentist Dentor, though, unless he consents. I have nothing at all against dentists, only I do think they're a bit affected to use the title of Doctor, even if they are legally qualified to use it.

Hardening of the Liver
Please tell me the cause of hardening of the liver. I am a woman 49 years of age and I wondered if my age might be the cause (M. F. O.)

Answer—Alcoholism, particularly gun drinking, is the commonest cause of cirrhosis or hardening of the liver. Probably the excessive use of condiments, highly spiced foods, is a cause, too. Too much mustard and similar dope on eats. Your age is not a cause of any health impairment.

Garden Is Going Fast

Our 20 month old boy eats dirt by the handful when he is out playing in the garden. We have tried everything in our power to stop him but just can't do it. Some one said his body needs lime... (Mrs. R. J. W.)

Answer—Certainly his body needs lime. Every child's body does, and plenty of fresh milk, fresh butter, fresh raw carrot, orange, fresh eggs will provide it. Just punish the child for each offense, by slapping the hand and presently he will be content to get his peek of dirt like ordinary folk. Meanwhile, no particular harm done by the soil or sand he eats. It is a common perversion of appetite in children, known as "pica," true to form we doctors give it a funny name to conceal our ignorance.

They Fade Away

Back home we used your remedy for corns and calluses with great satisfaction for years. They faded away under it. Since moving here we lost the recipe. Please print it again. (R. G.)

Answer—Paint corn, wart or callus daily with a solution of 50 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE desert man who started out on camel back to look about and try and find poor Clowdy, knew the desert very well. Said he, "The wind's blown toward the East. Toward there my speed will be increased. I'm sure I'll come across the lad—and won't he think that's swell."

"I'll bet he's lonesome as can be. That's why real welcome I will be. I guess he's pretty anxious to rejoin the other boys." Then, on he traveled out through space. It was very lonesome race. In 'bout an hour he thought he heard a quite peculiar noise.

It came from right "neath some trees. He shouted, "Step out, if you please. I'd like to see just whom you are." Wee Clowdy stepped in view. "Say, are you Clowdy?" cried the man. And, up to him the last lad ran. Then Clowdy shouted, "Sure I am. Now, tell me who are you?"

"I am a desert scout. That's true! I look for wee lost boys like you." "Oh, I was found," said Clowdy, "by the daughter of the Sand. You see, she's right here with me now. We're going to find my bunch somehow." The scout then said, "We'll all return together. 'Twill be grand!"

And so the three moved on their way and traveled through the livelong day. They each took turns a-watching on the camel's back. What fun! The town of Burem came in sight and happy Clowdy Tynmite

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Panhandlers have become the major pest of Manhattan. Spurning the apple-selling business (by the way, what's become of the man who started business on a shoe-string), they continue to sidle up to prosperous looking citizens and tell their hard-luck tales.

One big business man of the mid-town zone, who walks to work from his Park avenue apartment, has them beaten, however.

Every day he has been accosted three or four times between home and office, usually by fellows whose faces finally came to have a rather familiar appearance.

The other day, when the business man saw one of them dodging toward him, he pulled up his overcoat collar and heaved toward the fellow. Before the panhandler could speak, the quick-witted pedestrian said, out of the side of his mouth:

"Say, bo, can you let me have a dime for a cuppa coffee?" The real panhandler gave one startled look and vanished around the nearest corner.

Under The Rose

The speakasy business, if I may be pardoned for mentioning it, is so bad that proprietors of the basement hideaways are going after the visiting trade.

They watch the lists of hotel arrivals and then send telegrams, inviting the newcomer from out of town to try their "cuisine and genial hospitality."

It came to light when an 80-year-old woman, a very proper soul, who was stopping at the St. Regis, received one. She was so incensed that she turned the telegram over to the house detective.

Idea's Origin

The plan of peddling theater tickets by telegraph, which seems to be succeeding after a fashion, involves a little tale of unemployment.

It seems that a young reporter on a trade journal was discussing what is called the theater ticket evil with his boss one day.

The editor said he thought one way of defeating the ticket gyps would be to have seat reservations made by telegraph to the box office. The playgoer could avoid the trouble of shopping for his tickets and yet the speculator would be eliminated.

Soon after this talk the young reporter was first. He telegraphed to work as a personal relations representative for a telegraph corporation. He remembered his former employer's ticket scheme and put it up to his new boss.

Now he is sitting very pretty indeed.

Gunmen were in attendance at the wedding of Al Capone's sister in Chicago. It isn't reported whether or not they serenaded the couple with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

College enrollments have increased despite the depression. And for the fraternities business, as usual, will be "rushing."

Miniature golf courses are being installed in restaurants in England. Maybe to stimulate the demand for five o'clock tea.

The fellow who picked the winning teams last season is one, at least, who thinks things are decidedly for the better.

The rich man who marries his daughter to an unsupporting young man is also doing his bit, in giving the bride away, to aid the unemployed.

Once there was a paragrapher who never once razed a statement in Cal Coolidge's daily article.

fits. And if that particular one does not fit, he may find one in Captain Gush's locker—left there by another—which will do.

Shifts are arranged so that time may be had for work, study and sleep. From midnight to eight a. m. one group is on duty; from eight a. m. until four p. m. another, and the third from that time until midnight.

Of course, the force is given stability by older men who serve as permanent officers.

In addition to Captain Gush, the chief, there are four lieutenants, five special officers and five sergeants.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Several months ago when regulations governing the conduct and duties of the police force on Capitol Hill were tightened, one of the privates remarked:

"Gosh, they're trying to make cops of us."

And that statement was made in all seriousness, not without some resentment.

Wonder what this young fellow thinks now after his superiors sent him charging into that bunch of Communists which attempted to stage a demonstration at the capitol on the opening day of congress?

Certainly if the smell of tear gas, the feel of a nightstick landing on a person's head, or the sight of a fist heading for one's eye means anything, then he must admit kinship with the fraternity of cops however much he may dislike it.

Wonder, even capitol cops—may be called on at times to do other things than direct traffic or guide wandering tourists.

STUDENTS, TOO

It's a queer outfit, perhaps the strangest of its kind in the country—this group of policemen who guard the capitol and the senate and house office buildings. For erudition no police force could hardly match this one.

Of the 80 or more members of the various colleges and universities around Washington. Many of them hold college degrees and are patrolling the capitol grounds and are patrolling the capitol grounds and are patrolling the capitol grounds.

Some are law students, others are preparing themselves for the foreign service, while there are a few studying medicine.

Their leader is a genial, old-time cowpuncher and miner—Capt. Stephen J. Gnasit—who refers to the men under his command as "my boys." For, because its members are mostly students, the force is a very youthful body. Most of the privates range in age from 18 to 25. They come from all states appointed by a senator or a representative.

NEW FACES

Faces come and go. The man who completes his course, for example, at the Georgetown university foreign service school will be replaced tomorrow by a man just arrived to take up a three-year course in law at George Washington.

The newcomer even may fall heir to the outgoing cop's uniform—if it saw all the other Times and to them began to run.

WANG POINTS TO ADVANCES MADE IN CHINA

Says Other Powers Friendly to Nation's Present Aspirations

Nanking, China.—(AP)—Addressing the cabinet of the Nationalist government, Foreign Minister C. T. Wang today said the year 1930 had been characterized by an increasing response by foreign powers toward China's national aspirations.

The foreign minister said China must reciprocate for good will and accord adequate protection to foreign life and property in China if the Nationalist government expected to retain its present favorable position in the eyes of other governments.

Wang told the cabinet success in diplomacy was possible only with peace and order in the country and expressed the hope that the Nationalist government would be able to keep the nation free of major hostilities.

Completion of treaties with 11 countries in 1928 gave China nominal tariff autonomy, he said, but this did not become an actuality until this year with the conclusion of the Sino-Japanese tariff agreement last May and the exchange of ratifications with Holland last month.

Wang stated an exchange of notes with Great Britain concerning the rendition of the British concession at Amoy had been effected in September. Vowehwei formally restored to China by Great Britain in October, and a treaty regarding the return of the Belgian concession at Tientsin had been ratified.

The foreign minister said China had requested the rendition of the French and Japanese concessions at Hankow and the French leased territory of Kwangchow Wan, Kwangtung province.

Regarding extraterritoriality, Wang said the year-end found nine treaty powers amenable to Chinese jurisdiction, namely, Australia, Germany, Russia, Mexico, Persia, Greece, Finland, Bolivia and Czechoslovakia. Conclusion of a treaty with Poland, he said, would bring the number to ten.

Hits At Red Regime
Of Chinese relations with the Russian government, Wang said the Chinese delegate seeking settlement of the Chinese Eastern railroad dispute had gone to Moscow last May, but that no conference had been held until October.

As a result of this, Wang concluded the Russians apparently had intended to promote discord between the Chinese and Manchurian regimes, but that the Soviet government had failed. Consequently, he said, a meeting between Chinese and Russian delegates had been arranged in Moscow Dec. 4, at which three committees were named to consider the railway problem, Sino-Russian trade and a resumption of diplomatic relations. These committees now are engaged in preliminary considerations.

Wang said negotiations were proceeding with Sweden, Peru and Japan regarding extraterritoriality and seeking treaties to serve for those which have expired.

The foreign minister also stated conversations seeking abolition of English and American extraterritorial rights were proceeding. He expressed confidence definite decisions would be reached by next spring.

During the year, Wang said, the foreign office negotiated and consummated five treaties and three others had been signed and awaited ratification. These included the American treaty of arbitration, he said.

Why not combine the family present into one great big splendid gift this Christmas?

A General Electric Radio will give to each member of your family more genuine enjoyment and pleasure, not only at Christmas-time but throughout the year, than they could possibly get from the ordinary Christmas present. Now Is Time For Secrets Of Christmas

BY ANGELO PATRI
This is the time for Christmas secrets. Feel wealthy about Christmas and set to work helping the children celebrate it royally. The children like best to plan and execute their own surprises for their friends. The things they want to give their favorites do not come from the shops usually. They have to be made. That's where you come in. There are hosts of things that can be made at home, should be made at home for Christmas gifts.

How about making a patchwork cover for a stool? A girl who can sew can make her pet auntie crow with delight on Christmas morning if she makes her such a covering for an old footstool, or a new one. The right sort of patches, the right pattern, and dainty stitches, close quilting, and the thing is a work of art. Maybe the boy in the family wants to make the footstool. He can.

A box of home-made candy that shows care and workmanship and still is a welcome gift. Hunt up the old recipe books and see what can be done. Decorate the box with color-paintings, pasted pictures, colored papers, bits of gay ribbons, and you have a joyous bit of Christmas cheer.

A letter with photographs to be sent to faraway friends is a fine idea. If the letter can be done in manuscript writing on decorated paper, a note printed on the back of each photograph, the exile will cherish it past everything else that comes in his Christmas stocking.

A letter with photographs to be sent to faraway friends is a fine idea. If the letter can be done in manuscript writing on decorated paper, a note printed on the back of each photograph, the exile will cherish it past everything else that comes in his Christmas stocking.

A basket of preserves made by the giver is another good gift. Home-made jams and jellies and preserves are coming into style. There's nothing like the flavor of the home-cooked sweets. And they can be made to look like a picture. Imagine mint jelly, currant jelly, peach plum jam, quince marmalade in shining glasses decked with holly. If your tongue doesn't lap, lap, you must be past the age for Christmas and that is impossible.

It is a lot of bother to help children make their gifts but it pays great dividends in love and happiness and human understanding. Children who make things for those they love serve twice, and certainly are the gainers.

Try to feel wealthy this Christmas time. Remember that the spirit of Christmas is one of giving. Forget your fear and loosen your purse strings. Christmas giving is like lighting the Christmas candles. You light your candle and touch your neighbors'. He touches the candle next to his, and behold there is a glow of light flashed round the world.

You give and your giving opens the way for the next gift and that the next and the next until the world is bathed in the spirit of giving. There is an old law that is stern in its decree, never failing, eternal. "Ceasing to give, you cease to have." Then give. Share what you have and do it joyously without fear, without grudging. Help the children to give. Lift the burden of the needy. Do your level best to spread Christmas spirit and Christmas cheer.

Just know that giving is better than getting, that spending just now is better than hoarding. Keep Christmas and honor Santa Claus. Let's go shopping. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

BY ALICIA HART

Wrinkles are perhaps the most psychologically devastating of all face blemishes.

They are those little silent signals of approaching age. But if you could get in the habit of considering them signals that may be postponed, your face will keep its youthful smoothness many years longer.

The first wrinkles appear under the eyes. Then come the crow's-feet at the corners of the eyes. Then the wrinkles from the nose to the mouth. And then come those from the mouth to the chin. In between these stages, some women develop a couple of deep vertical wrinkles between the eyes.

Attacking them in their usual order, you should concentrate on the wrinkles under the eyes. If you haven't them, then you have a tremendous head start because they can be staved off by treatment.

Squinting causes lines under the eyes, many times. If you squint, forego the pleasure of wearing the latest stop-the-head hats and go in for headgear that gives you a bit of eye-shade. There are tricornes that furnish you with some. There are some faintly brimmed little chap-eaux that do the same for your eyes.

Next, fatigue wrinkles your skin under your eyes. Work out your day so that you get a couple of rest periods, but cool compresses on them when you lie down.

You must get into the habit of massaging and nourishing the skin around your eyes. Not only mornings and nights, but when you snatch these rest periods. Use your favorite nourishing cream, stroke the eyelids softly in gentle motion across from the nose towards the temple, then stroke the skin under the eyes, with your first two fingers, also from the nose outward. Leave some of the cream on while you rest, and at night when you sleep.

"Palming" the eyes is a restful and effective relaxing habit for your eyes and the wrinkles under them. Dip your hands in cold water, let them get nice and cool, and then lay your palms over your eyes for a second or two, cool them again in water and repeat. You will find this most refreshing.

My Neighbor Says--

Take every precaution during the Christmas season against fires. Do not go away and leave Christmas trees lighted or candles burning. Watch them carefully.

If your milkman fails to arrive with cream in time for breakfast whip an egg very light, place a little in each coffee cup, pour in coffee and then add milk and you will not miss the cream.

Wreaths hung on the outside of windows keep much longer than if hung on the inside. Heat dries them and causes leaves to curl.

When blowing out a candle hold the light above you and then blow. If you do this the wick will not smolder, and therefore the candle will be easily lighted again. The contrary will be the case if you blow downward.

If draperies are set afire, do not try to pull them down; remove nearby objects and use wet broom to smother the burning pieces as they fall.

Jabot Collar

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

This graceful model will have an especial appeal to figures a little above normal.

And into the bargain it will be found extremely easy to make.

The softly falling jabot collar has a marvelous slimming effect on the bodice. It also offers opportunity for contrast.

The scalloped outline of the skirt diminishes the width through the hips.

There are any number of lovely schemes for its development.

You'll like black canton crepe very well with the vest of self-fabric with the jabot carried out in white crepe.

Black transparent velvet with the vest of lace is exquisitely lovely. Crepe marocain in the new rust red shade is charmingly wearable with vest and jabot in self-fabric.

Style No. 2706 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 14-inch all-over lace and ½ yard of 39-inch light contrasting.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children; embroidery, Xmas suggestions, etc.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 10 cents.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

"GIVING sugar coated pills is my job," Dr. Burton said it whimsically. "Wrapping up brown medicine in pink sugar so the patient doesn't know he's getting the thing he swore he wouldn't take. Do you understand?"

Sarah shook a baffled head.

"I put it on a business-basis proposition. I'm going away . . . I'm taking a small town partnership I could have had a year ago . . . and I need someone to answer the telephone and greet the patients. She'll do that. We'll manage. It's . . . He broke off and jumped to his feet. "Oh, it's hell, he flung out savagely.

"No, it isn't," Sarah answered quickly. "Give that thought a kick and knock it for a goal. You're not the only one with problems. I suppose you think I look like a hot house orchid. Well, my money's gone, and the man I love is marrying someone else, and it's not you, either, Billie Burton! But I'm not sad about it. It's going to be fun to start again . . . you know, to keep right on laughing. I'll enjoy thinking how easily I'm fooling others. Aren't you man enough to play the game that way, too?"

"Then you think that I should marry her?" Dr. Burton asked.

"Yes, I think you should but I don't think she should marry you! I think any girl is crazy to marry a man who doesn't want her. I respect this one because she refuses. Only of course there is the child, and he has a right to a home and father. Because of that, the business proposition idea sounds about your best plan. But otherwise, I'd tell her to put as many miles as she has money to buy a railroad ticket between you."

She didn't tell him that she thought such a situation, as the one facing him, was unfair to him, too, but she was thinking it. Instead, she stood up suddenly, told him it was time for him to go, and that she would meet them at the courthouse the next morning at ten o'clock.

Sarah was at the appointed place a few minutes ahead of time, and when Dr. Burton came they strolled through the corridor, watching for the third member of the party.

"Good morning," a cheerful voice called to them, and swinging around quickly, Sarah saw Miles Roberts approaching them. His eyes were twinkling and yet they were puzzled.

"It looks mysterious," he continued, glancing at the sign over the marriage-license bureau door.

"It isn't," Sarah answered. "We're waiting for someone."

She forgot that she had seen Miles until that evening when her telephone rang.

"Sarah?" She caught her breath in surprise. It was Ted's voice.

"Oh yes, Ted. What is the old car word?"

"I'm sorry . . . I didn't get around to it today . . . But, are congratulations in order?"

"In order? I don't understand."

"I saw Miles today and he said, . . ."

"Oh, my goodness, I was acting as a witness, that's all. I haven't a thing on which to be congratulated except my disposition."

"Good!" Telephones were so deceptive that Sarah wondered if the relief in his voice was there or if the intervening distance put it in.

"In that case I'll get busy on your car the first thing in the morning," he answered.

"Now what did he mean by that?" Sarah asked the telephone when he had hung up.

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

SANTA CLAUS!

Yesterday I was visiting at the home of a friend. Although it was but a few days before Christmas, instead of great festivity in the air, I found the two small daughters of my hostess engaged in a heated argument.

They were aged four and seven. Their conversation ran somewhat as follows:

"There is," said the younger.

"There isn't," said the older.

And each one tried to scream the other one down.

When I asked them what it was all about the older girl, Virginia, replied in superior tones, "Betty is silly. She believes there is a Santa Claus. Pooh! YOU know there isn't."

We women were all little girls once and I think Christmas brings that fact home to us more forcibly than any other time.

I can remember the first time an older girl told me there wasn't a Santa Claus. I never did like that girl after that. I asked her how she knew, just as little Betty was asking Virginia, but they never do know. And Betty had to be comforted, just as all little Bettys of the world have to be helped over the period of terrible disillusion.

Unfortunately this is a world of realities, not dreams. A little child dreams but as grown-ups we are forced to face actualities.

The easiest thing in the world is to destroy an illusion. But to destroy an illusion is to shatter a dream or hurt a human heart.

It has often been remarked that youth is cruel.

No person of mature judgment would taunt a little child who was trying to preserve an illusion.

"Tell me," insisted Betty, "that there IS a Santa Claus. I want a doll."

Patience and faith help us to attain what we desire in this world.

Do we not as little girls have Patience and Faith—and does not Santa Clause frequently reward us!

If you wish help with your problems write to the author.

EVERY DAY WORTH LIVING

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach—perhaps not serious enough in many cases to be confirming, still severe enough to prevent the fullest enjoyment of every day life and the pleasure of performing ones daily duties. To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas disturbances, bloating, belching, heartburn, bad breath (halitosis), loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Try Prun-der's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a long standing nature. We shall be glad to give further information, and, of course, without obligation.

GRANT COLUMBIA APPLICATION FOR TELEVISION WORK

Broadcasting System Bobs
Up as Competitor in Visual Radio

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Momentarily squelched by official action, the Columbia Broadcasting system bobs up as a formidable factor in the television race being waged behind the scenes for first honors in the inauguration of practical visual radio.

A fortnight ago things looked gloomy for the network's television plans, when examiner Elmer W. Pratt recommended to the radio commission that its application for an experimental television station in New York be denied. But the commission overrode the adverse recommendation and Columbia today holds its first experimental television permit, determined to inject competition into the development of the visual art, just as it has in network broadcasting. The National Broadcasting company and its affiliated companies hold a half dozen experimental television permits.

Elaborate plans looking toward the introduction of chain television, like chain broadcasting of today, have been charted by Columbia, according to its president, William S. Paley. The network immediately will begin its attack upon this baffling fourth dimension of radio, in which encouraging strides now are being made.

The network's transmitter, to be of 500 watts power, will be in operation early in 1931.

"Will Hasten Service"
Mr. Paley said today that by bringing the competitive energy and engineering resources of Columbia into television development, he hoped to hasten the transition of the art from its present experimental

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS TAKE APTITUDE TESTS

The seniors of Appleton high school have completed the college aptitude tests which are given annually to 18,000 high school students in Wisconsin. These tests have been forwarded to the University of Wisconsin where they will be checked. They will be returned early in January and will be used as a guide during the senior conferences.

This is the third successive year that these aptitude tests have been given as a part of the cooperative program that is being used by high schools, colleges, and private schools.

The sophomores have also completed an aptitude test by Hermanns stage to actual service to the public. He emphasized that television is experimental and that it is unlikely that the public will get television "in the form they expect it for some time to come."

"Parts of each day will be devoted to televising artists as they broadcast," he said, "so that those within range of the signals may see and hear the programs, thus enhancing development. The broadcasting of the picture of the artist will not be on a commercial basis but will be aimed to develop the technique of picking up such pictures through proper placement of artists and to explode the entertainment capabilities of the artists."

"Of course we are looking forward to the day when television images may be transmitted from New York to other cities by wire, just as network broadcasting programs are carried now. This will require a great deal of research to develop a wire capable of carrying the wide range of frequencies and to narrow the present one hundred kilocycle band for television so that more channels will be made available for additional television stations."

Eighteenth Amendment Hit By Dartmouth College Head

dustrial efficiency of workmen belong in a national charter of any government except of one more utilitarian than I am willing to see the United States become."

"I feel so strongly in regard to the desirability of temperance in the use of alcoholic liquors, as in all other things," he said, "that, despite my objections to the whole theory of the eighteenth amendment, I would support it if I either had seen or was seeing at the present day any evidence to justify a belief that legislation enacted under the amendment had worked or that it could be made to work.

"Instead of seeing this, my observation in traveling about the United States is that great areas which used to be wholly dry are now saturated, not only with alcoholic liquors but with a spirit of complete abandon in regard to the control or use of these.

"Likewise, the original attitude of resentment against the use of law for the support of this amendment has given place to a complete indifference to the requirements of law, which to me is a more dangerous situation.

"Meanwhile, money which was originally collected in excise on liquor and paid to the national government, plus the swollen profit of inflated prices on liquor and the further profits of cutting and cheapening liquor, has been made available to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars for corruption. Thus the law has subsidized the building up of an underworld empire or enormous power backed by enormous financial resources."

CHRISTMAS MAIL RUSH FLOODS LOCAL OFFICE

Ten trucks and a full staff of clerks and carriers, aided by many additional workers, was busy Monday morning attempting to distribute the deluge of Christmas mail which came to Appleton Sunday and Monday morning. Each of the trucks will be forced to make two trips through the city Monday to deliver the thousands of parcels. Despite the fact that yesterday was Sunday it was necessary to keep a large force of men at work to handle the incoming and outgoing mail. The cancelling machine registered 40,000 pieces of outgoing mail yesterday, one of the largest totals for a Sunday throughout the year. The peak of the Christmas rush is expected to be reached today and tomorrow.

Tony Manero Winner Of First Honors At Pasadena Tourney

FRANK WALSH GETS 69 AND TIES FOR 4TH PLACE MONEY

Pro and Amateur Caravan Now Moves on for Agua Caliente Open

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
PASADENA, CAL., (AP)—The $4,000 Pasadena open golf tournament, won by Tony Manero today, was written into the annals of the ancient and royal game as the battle of the three putts.

Meanwhile, the golfing trail led toward Agua Caliente, Mexico, where the biggest winter event on the coast, the Agua Caliente $25,000 open, gets underway tomorrow.

Some of those who failed to collect in the 72-hole event ending yesterday, played the "balloon" ball, new to tournament play. Most of those receiving the larger cuts at the payoff declared it was only a mental complex. All agreed that the three-day event was lost on the putting greens.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, admitted he flitted away comeback chances with frequent three-putting. Horton Smith, of New York who won the 1929 tourney over the same course, said the new lighter but larger pellet consistently refused to go down. He was a dozen strokes higher than last year and tied with Hagen for fifth place, five behind Manero.

Three Over Par
Naturally, Tony was the leading exponent of the new ball. He had cards of 73-71-74-69 for a 287 total, but finished three points over par. Mortie Dutra, the southern's leading exponent from Long Beach, Calif., three-putted the final green and finished with 289. Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, Chicago, were third with 290 each.

New ball regardless, the treachery of the creeping bent greens had something to do with the excess putts. Charles Lacey, former British professional but now of New York, said he found difficulty in mastering the new greens. "I took at least 90 excess putts," he complained. He finished with a 306.

Walsh Gets 69
Manero's par-plundering finish of 69 was duplicated by Frank Walsh, of Chicago, and Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica. Only one other player broke perfect figures. He was W. Cox of Brooklyn.

Of the amateurs, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, led the list with a 299, finishing in eleventh place. Russ Thompson, Glendale, Calif., was second, a stroke behind.

The leading money winners: Tony Manero, New York, 287—$1,000; Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, 287—$600; Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., 290—$375; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 290—$375; Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex., 291—$281.15; Tommy Armour, Detroit, 291—$281.15; Frank Walsh, Chicago, 299—$231.15; Willie Hunter, Montebello, Calif., 291—$231.15; Horton Smith, New York, 292—$112.50; Walter Hagen, Detroit, 292—$112.50.

The big event of winter golf on the coast, Agua Caliente's $25,000 open, will get under way tomorrow.

RIPON COMPLETES FOOTBALL PROGRAM

Crimson Plays Lawrence at Appleton, Oct. 24; Meet Michigan State

Ripon—Two important non-conference football games Saturday were added to the 1931 schedule for the Ripon college Redmen by Athletic Director Carl H. Boehling. A six-game card has been arranged, including four games with traditional Midwest and Big Four opponents.

Marquette University will be the first of Ripon's non-conference opponents. The tilt will be a starlight engagement at Milwaukee on Oct. 9. This will be the third nightcap for the Redmen, Marquette and the Wisconsin reserves having been played in night attractions during the last season.

The strong Michigan State eleven of East Lansing will prove formidable opponents for the Redmen in their second 1931 non-conference game. Ripon will play there Nov. 7. Except for a season's opener Sept. 26, which Coach Doehling expects to fill with a strong college opponent, Ripon's fall card is completed as follows:

Sept. 26—Open.
Oct. 3—Beloit college at Beloit.
Oct. 9—Marquette university at Milwaukee (night).
Oct. 17—Cornell college at Ripon.
Oct. 24—Lawrence college at Appleton.
Oct. 31—Carroll college at Ripon.
Nov. 7—Michigan State at East Lansing.

HOLD SPEED SKATING RACES AT WAUSAU

Wausau (AP)—William Ritter, president of the Wisconsin Skating Association, announced yesterday that Wausau has been selected for the scene of the national outdoor speed skating races. The tournament will be held Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The championships drew nationally known entrants. Fred Dierert, Milwaukee, took the title in 1928.

KEN STRONG STARS AS STAPES BEAT GIANTS

New York (AP)—Stapleton has won the pro football championship of New York city, thanks to Ken Strong, former New York University star. Stapleton beat the New York Giants, 19-7, yesterday and Strong booted a 30 yard field goal, ran 98 yards for one touchdown, passed to Stein for the other and kicked one extra point.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

The Old Guard
BASEBALL'S faces keep changing. The player who gave the best years of his life to the game, only to be sent down the river when he withered his arm and dimmed his eye, might console himself with examples of the cruelties fate can wreak upon those who once employed him.

On almost the same day recently three familiar figures of another day burst back into the news. One was Charley Comiskey, owner of the White Sox. Another was Ban Johnson, former president of the American League and chairman of the National Commission. Yet another was Garry Herrmann, former owner of the Reds, and a power of the National Commission.

Changing Scenes
Or a hospital bed in St. Louis Ban Johnson, once the iron hand that ruled the baseball world, lay near death. In Cincinnati, subsiding by reason of pensions accorded him by the powerful groups he once headed, Garry Herrmann was reported to be rapidly failing in health. In Chicago, Comiskey, hobbling about in his apartment, afflicted by lameness, sat with a reporter and dreamed of the greatest ball team he ever had—the White Sox of 1919—and how it threw him down.

Three years ago Ban Johnson walked out of his office as president of the American League, never to return. His feud with Comiskey, a bitter personal war that endured more than 15 years, had finally brought about his defeat. His health, not too good before that began to fail rapidly then. Now, at 67, he finds himself fighting his last battle—for life.

Few friends are at hand, except Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, and the doctors, who can do nothing except try to prolong his life for a short time.

THE boys are getting all het up over Wisconsin's basketball victory over Penn the other evening and are even going so far as to pick the squad as Big Ten winners this year. However, the fact that Notre Dame with an ordinary squad went out and beat the easterners the other evening takes the glory out of the Badgers' victory. Don Meanwell always has good teams, but personally we'll wait until the Badgers play a couple more games. Somehow that remark passed during the grid season "an ordinary player in any other school is always All-American at Wisconsin" still rankles in our mind.

Stoney McGlynn of Milwaukee's Sentinel picks an All-American professional grid team. He names two Packers on the first guard, Dilweg and Nash and puts Kern, Bowdoin and Lewellen on the second squad. Fans in this section will get a big shock in noting that Mike Michalske is not named on either eleven. Speaking of Mike, Stoney says: "As guard we name Comstock of the Giants and Kiesel of the Cardinals. Both played strong games on every appearance. Mike Michalske of the Packers, a veteran all-pro league selection for many years, started out as of old, but slumped from the Portsmouth game at Green Bay, Nov. 2, until the end of the season. Playing very unorthodox style of guard play, Mike was poison to plays around the flanks if one of the opposing guards pulled out, but rival teams, sensing his "falling" the running guard, faked plays to the flanks and then cut back directly over his position for big gains throughout the season.

Stoney's selection follows:
First team—Dilweg, Packers, end; Lyman, Bears, tackle; Comstock, Giants, guard; Pearson, Bears, center; Kiesel, Cards, guard; Douds, Spartans, tackle; Nash, Packers, end; Friedman, Giants, quarterback; Strong, Stapleton, halfback; Grange, Bears, halfback; Nevers, Cards, fullback.

Second team—Badgro, Giants, end; Kern, Packers, tackle; McMullan, Bears, guard; Hagberg, Brooklyn, center; Bowdoin, Packers, guard; Mooney, Brooklyn, tackle; Johnson, Bears, end; Brumbaugh, Bears, quarterback; Lewellen, Packers, halfback; Thompson, Brooklyn, halfback; McBride, Brooklyn, fullback. Reserve first team: Nagurski of the Bears.

GENARO, WOLCAST TO CLASH FRIDAY
New Yorker Is Recognized by N. B. A. as King of 112 Pounders

New York (AP)—Frankie Genaro of New York and Milet Wolcast of Philadelphia clash in Madison Square Garden Friday night in a 15-round bout that should give the flyweight division its first generally recognized champion in several years.

Genaro is recognized as 112-pound king by the National Boxing Association while Wolcast is champion in the eyes of the New York and Pennsylvania State Athletic commissions. Barring a draw, a new and rightful holder of the crown should emerge.

Genaro, at 29, is a true veteran of the ring. He won N. B. A. recognition as flyweight title-holder by winning a Canadian elimination tournament two years ago. In much the same manner, Wolcast survived the field in an elimination tournament conducted by the Garden here last spring and as a result gained the approval of the New York and Pennsylvania commissions. He is only 21 years old and in the opinion of many experts will prove too fast and shifty for Genaro. Frankie has been knocking around the rings of the United States and Europe for ten years and more. He has lost much of his speed but still has lots of stamina and a much better punch than Wolcast.

This bout is the only one of any importance to the national schedule, most other boxing centers forgetting about the cauliflower until after the holidays.

BADGER CAGERS TO MEET MISSOURI AT MADISON TONIGHT

Holiday Lull for Big Ten Schools Not So Noticeable This Year

CHICAGO (AP)—The usual holiday lull in Big Ten basketball will not be so noticeable this season, with 13 games listed before the championship campaign opens Monday Jan. 5, 1931.

Wisconsin and Illinois will provide the action tonight, the Badgers meeting Missouri at Madison, and Illinois entertaining the little giants from Wabash college. Iowa will meet Creighton at Omaha, tomorrow night, and Chicago will be host to Bradley college of Peoria, Ill., Saturday night.

International contests dominate the remainder of the pre-season schedule. On New Year's Eve Brigham Young university's five will play at Chicago, while Purdue will meet Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh, and Wisconsin will go to Milwaukee for a game with Marquette.

New Years night will find Alabama at Northwestern, Ohio Wesleyan at Michigan and Indiana at Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania. The pre-conference season will wind up Saturday Jan. 3 with three games. Ohio Wesleyan will invade Chicago, Notre Dame and Northwestern will play its return engagement at Evanston, and Illinois will meet Bradley for the second time at Peoria.

Pennsylvania's invasion of the midwest turned out to be a total loss. Wisconsin whipped the Quakers, 25 to 12, Thursday night, and Notre Dame defeated the eastern outfit, 31 to 19, Friday night. Michigan put on the finishing touch Saturday, winning by 46 to 22, at Ann Arbor. The victory was the Wolverines' third straight. Northwestern also made it three in a row, beating Carleton's stubborn five, 31 to 22, and Minnesota mauled Beloit, 39 to 18, for its third triumph.

Short Sports

238-Pound Tackle Agile
Pulaski, Wash. (AP)—Glenn Edwards, Washington State college's "Terrible Turk" named tackle in the All-American consensus of the Associated Press, plays all over the field although he weighs 238 pounds. In the Oregon State game he intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown.

Kicking That Is Kicking
The most brilliant punting seen in the Southwest Conference this season has been done by Paul MacFadden, Texas Aggie's end who has fallen below the 40-yard mark in only one kick. Several times he has booted more than 60 yards and once against Texas Christian his punt measured 90 yards.

Drowned in Crimson Tide
Kentucky's sensational halfback, John Sims (shipwreck) Kelly, made at least one 50-yard run for a touchdown in each of the first five games of the season. In the sixth game against Alabama's great forward wall, Kelly made seven yards in 11 attempts—and Alabama won.

Bucs To Be Among Leaders In National League Race

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright, 1930
NEW YORK (CFA)—One of the major league managers, expressing his opinion as to what may happen in the baseball race, 1931 observed that Pittsburgh has a pitching staff that is potentially the strongest in baseball. He did not say potentially. He remarked that it "had left to it."

This manager had been watching Wood, of Wichita, all during the 1930 season and when he found that Pittsburgh had a hammer lock on Wichita players, he was sore at heart. He says Wood is the coming left hand pitcher of the National league. The Giants thought they had a coming left-hander in Bill Walker and it is not sure that he may not arrive even yet.

The failure of Walker to succeed may be one of the reasons why Dick Kingsla failed to remain with the New York club as a scout, because a large outlay was made for Walker.

For pitchers Pittsburgh has Bednar who also was with Wichita and who also is good; Brame, French, Grant, Kremer, Swetonic, Willoughby and Wood. There are some younger pitchers, too, but those who have been named are players of a fixed value.

French Comes Back
If Wood continues to improve he should pair up with French as a probable winner and between them they can dole out all of the left hand

BUTLER WOULD ASK ALUMNI ENDOW FOR ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Believes Plan Would End Importance, Influence of Gate Receipts

NEW YORK (AP)—Endowment of college athletics by alumni in order to end the influence of gate receipts is suggested by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in his annual report, published today. He also proposes "an academic league of nations" with jurisdiction over college sports.

"The abuses of intercollegiate athletics are many and various," says the report, "and it is exceedingly difficult to bring about their remedy. So obsessed are many alumni with a passion for victory at all costs that they are quite willing to shut their eyes to very discreditable happenings which reflect sadly upon their own colleges in a way which no series of victories on the athletic field can possibly overcome.

"The enormous cost of these intercollegiate football contests and the still more enormous revenues which are produced by them, if a team or a particular institution gains a reputation for success, are a constant and justifiable source of academic as well as public criticism."

"Learn Over Backwards"
"These institutions whose administrative authorities stand up straight, and even lean over backward, in the matter of conditions of admission and standards of scholarship in colleges are punished on the playing field when those who represent them come in contest with athletic teams constituted of very different material from theirs.

"Perhaps what is needed is an academic league of nations to take jurisdiction over this entire field of endeavor and to preserve what is excellent while shutting out what is unbecoming and unworthy.

"Perhaps the one satisfactory and permanent solution of these problems is that athletic sports, being a well-recognized part of undergraduate life and undergraduate training, should be suitably and adequately endowed by the alumni. Were this done, it would then be possible at one stroke to bring to an end the importance and influence of gate receipts and put baseball and football, for example, on the same excellent plane that rowing has long occupied. Until something of this sort is done, Columbia must remain one of those colleges which pays the penalty, if penalty it be, of insisting upon the primacy of intellectual ideals and intellectual accomplishments."

Educators Not Agreed
New York (AP)—Views of prominent educators with regard to formation of an "athletic league of nations," proposed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler to provide a free gate at college contests, were published in the New York Times today.

Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Barnard college, said the proposal was worth considering but expressed doubt that alumni endowment was the proper remedy. He added that there was some hysteria about over-emphasis of football.

Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York university said such an organization was "extremely desirable."

Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, said the suggestion was entitled to "sympathetic consideration."

Dr. Frank Aydelotte, head of Swarthmore college, pledged his support on the basis of a brief account of the plan, but thought the evils of academic sports came from spectators.

Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, declined to be enthusiastic, saying athletics had rules and organizations enough—if they were adhered to. "The trouble is," he added, "that the pessimist of the day has invaded college ranks."

Paris (AP)—Charles Herzowitz, for years one of France's greatest rugby linemen, has become a heavy-weight pugilist. He bowled over his first four opponents inside of five minutes of fighting.

Big Ten Not Worried Over Waning Football Interest

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1930

NEW YORK (CFA)—With most of the Western conference universities out of debt so far as paying for their athletic plants is concerned, Major John L. Griffith, the commissioner of Big Ten athletics, has noted in the past season a marked diminution of that financial pressure which is reflected in straining for gate receipts. He feels that they are playing the game more for the sake of the game out in the midlands now. And he has, without doubt, a correct impression of the situation.

At the start of the season, for instance, George Huff remarked that he did not care very much whether or not they had large crowds at the Illinois stadium this year, and he spoke as though he meant what he said.

The Illinois amphitheatre is paid for and it is a structure sufficiently large to take care of all the friends of the Illini who may care to see a game. So Huff felt himself in the happy position of one who can hear the turnstiles click merrily or otherwise and not worry.

And At Madison
Glenn Thielstheffer referred in the past season to a wholesome condition at Madison. There is less furore among the "downtown crowd" over victories. After the victory over Pennsylvania, he says he did not receive a single telephone call of congratulation, a marked contrast to former seasons. And this was the case after later victories.

Major Griffith thinks that the "rah rah spirit" has receded in ratio as the great stadiums have arisen. Enthusiasts, he says, are taking games with much greater philosophy than in the old days when not more than ten thousand spectators attended games.

One wonders whether or not the experience of the West Point cadet corps with mammoth contests involving their teams has not mitigated the frenzied enthusiasm which they used to show in Army-Navy games. Have they become a bit blasé?

Certainly in the recent game against the Navy at the Yankee stadium, their dignified, their almost indifferent demeanor was marked. The Midshipmen brought to this contest all the historic fervor and between the halves they brought to the attention of the east those colored picture group arrangements which for so long have been a feature of big games on the West coast and in other sections.

Meanwhile the Cadets left their seats and sauntered about on the gridiron or visited friends in the environs stands—something no one ever saw in previous Army-Navy games. And when the victory had been won, the West Pointers were so matter-of-fact about it that their pose registered an indifference which seemed to some, in view of all things, to verge upon bad taste.

On the other hand, there were admirers of the Cadet corps who read in their attitude a more becoming reaction to the outcome of sporting events in which their teams are involved. In the fact that they let the goal posts alone will be found, it is hoped, an example which will prove far-reaching. It never was a practice worthy even of high school crowds, and, as a matter of fact, high school crowds do not, as a rule, resort to this sort of vandalism.

Minnesotans Slow in First Period but Recover and Win 39 and 18

Minneapolis Minn., — University of Minnesota basketball team registered its third straight victory here tonight when it defeated Beloit college, 39 to 18.

The Gophers were lethargic in the first half, but at the start of the second period they snapped out of it. Starting with the score 21 to 14 in their favor, the Gophers did not allow Beloit a field goal while they were adding 17 points to their total.

Earl Looze was the high scorer for Minnesota, collecting seven baskets and two free throws. Taylor led the losers with six points. The summary:

NEW YORK NOW GOLF CENTER FOR AMATEURS

New York (AP)—With the passing of Bobby Jones and George Von Elm, the metropolitan district seems to have become the amateur golfing center of the United States.

Within the district now are such figures as George Voigt, Maurice McCarthy, Eugene Homans, T. P. Perkins, Cyril Tolley and Jess Sweetser. Three of these, Perkins, Tolley and Sweetser, are former British amateur champions.

EASTERN CAGERS CONTINUE GAMES

Half Dozen Interesting Battles on the Cards Before Christmas Holidays

New York (AP)—The Christmas holidays reduce the eastern college basketball schedule to a minimum this week but leave a half dozen important contests on the program.

Most of the decisive action should be fought at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Penn's five, after a disastrous western trip, meets the undefeated Eastern outfit at the Palmetum Saturday night. The Pitt Panthers, a strong team despite the loss of Charley Hyatt, battles Dartmouth on Tuesday and Syracuse on Saturday. Syracuse figures in another big-time battle, meeting the unbeaten Columbia Lions, Eastern intercollegiate league champions, at Syracuse tomorrow night.

Temple University invades New York Saturday night to see whether it can stop the five-game winning streak of Nat Holman's College of the City of New York courtmen. St. John's of New York, a veteran array that won 23 games out of 24 last year, battles Union here tonight. Cornell makes its last start of the holidays against Buffalo tonight.

UPSETS FEATURE IN OLDER BOY LEAGUE; MIDGETS BEAT DELTS

Ornstein Specials Continue String of Victories by Beating Ghosts

A couple upsets marked the Older Boy league basketball games at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon. The first game found Sam Ornstein's Specials continuing their string of victories which wasn't quiet orthodox, and the second game saw the Third ward Midgets step out and sock the Delta chapter of H-Y where it hurts.

The score in the opening game between the Ghosts and Specials was 12 and 1, all of which is rather lopsided when considered in a good basketball sense. Huhn of the Ghosts did all his team's scoring, a lone free throw in the last half. The Specials in the meantime tallied seven points in the first half and then added five in the second.

The Third ward Midgets made almost every shot they tried in the game with the Delta H-Y team and that accounts for their win. In the first half Popp got three counters and Mortell, Van Ryzin, and Winters one each. Then in the last half Mortell counted three times and that was all that was necessary.

CUTTING RAPS LUCAS; SEES PARTY THREAT

New Mexico Senator Says

cided in the primaries that Senator Norris was a good enough Republican for them. He thereby became the regular Republican nominee and was entitled to the same undivided support from the national committee which Mr. Hoover received in 1928. Of course Mr. Lucas as an individual had a right, even after the nomination, to oppose the election of Senator Norris. He had no right to do so while remaining on the payroll of the Republican party.

"The pamphlets which were circulated in Nebraska were scurrilous, false on their face and unworthy of the meanest war heater in the land. If Mr. Lucas had not been entirely aware of the infidelity of his conduct, he would have acted in the open, instead of resorting to sly, subtle and chicanery in order to conceal his own identity. Here again the responsibility is not that of Mr. Lucas alone."

Meanwhile, Chairman Nye of the senate campaign funds committee summoned officials of a local bank to appear before his committee late today to testify regarding the note account of Lucas.

Lucas told the Nye committee Saturday he had borrowed $4,000 to pay for literature to be distributed in Nebraska last October in the campaign against Norris.

Nye sent investigators to Lucas' bank today, saying he would subpoena the bank officials if the investigators returned without the desired information.

"I'm wondering if Lucas speaks for the Republican national committee," said Nye, commenting on the Lucas statement that Senator Norris' attitude "brings an intolerable situation and one which must be eradicated if the party is to live."

Senator Glenn of Illinois, the only Republican regular who has engaged thus far in the political controversy, would not comment on Lucas' statement.

He did say, however, in referring to Norris, that he did not believe any many "who consistently fights the Republican program and policies and does everything possible he can to obstruct the Republican program is entitled to be called a Republican."

The issue is drawn for one of the most involved Republican battles since the split of the party in 1912. Chairman Fess of the national committee, has declared a hands off policy on the row but Senator Howell of Nebraska, has called for ejection of Lucas.

Here is the Lucas stand: "To accept office at the hands of this party and then viciously oppose its policies, principles and leadership brings an intolerable situation and one which must be eradicated if the party is to live."

"Such conduct by Senator Norris has been revolting to me until the leaders of the Republican party not only fail to support but give their active opposition to men like Senator Norris, they are not doing their full duty to the party which has come down to us from Lincoln."

This boldly worded declaration stands today under the official heading of "Republican national committee." Lucas assumed full responsibility for the statement.

Norris won re-nomination as a Republican in the Nebraska primary last summer and defeated Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Democratic nominee, in the election. He has aligned himself with the Republicans in congress on organization during his 27 years service. His vote is necessary to give Republicans control of the next senate. He campaigned against Herbert Hoover and for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, but no effort was made by the senate Republican leadership to take away his place in the party organization which gives him the chairmanship of the judiciary committee.

In his reply to the severe condemnation heaped upon him by Senators Norris and Howell in the senate on Saturday, Lucas yesterday denied that he had sponsored the circulation of "scurrilous" literature against Norris. He denied also that the Ku Klux Klan had anything to do with the literature.

"The facts are these," said the Lucas statement, "I contributed to the anti-Norris Republican organization of Nebraska three pieces of literature. One a pamphlet composed of editorial comment from a number of newspapers throughout the country, showing Senator Norris' opposition to the Republican party and to President Hoover. Another was a cartoon portraying Senator Norris' sincerity on the prohibition question. And the third a reproduction of a letter which called on Democrats of Nebraska to support Senator Norris in return for his support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in 1928."

Senator Howell told the senate that some of the literature was "damnable" and he said the anti-Norris forces in Nebraska refused to use it. Lucas denied that the literature he sent to Nebraska was calculated to appeal to religious prejudice.

A dozen Republican senators have voted with Senators Norris and Borah of Idaho, in their opposition to the Hoover farm relief and tariff policies during the last session. The group included Senators Nye and Frazier of North Dakota; LaFollette and Blaine of Wisconsin; Norbeck and McMaster of South Dakota; cutting of New Mexico; Brookhart of Iowa; and of Oklahoma, and Schall of Minnesota.

FAIL TO TRACE FIVE OCONOMOWOC ROBBERS

Oconomowoc—(P)—Waukesha-co authorities had found no trace of five who held up and robbed the Oconomowoc postoffice Saturday night and escaped with about $650 in cash and stamps, according to Sheriff Phil Herbrand. Postmaster Charles Brent had banked most of the day's receipts shortly before two armed men entered and forced him and six other employees to lie on the floor while they searched the place.

CHARGE 3 YOUTHS WERE DISORDERLY

Three Appleton boys, each 17 years old, were arraigned in juvenile court before Judge Fred W. Heinemann Monday morning on charges of disorderly conduct. They were arrested at the Chicago and Northwestern passenger depot Sunday night when Lester Van Roy, motorcycle officer, caught them drinking from a bottle, which it is alleged, contained moonshine. The boys told the court they found the liquor near a dance hall just outside Appleton. Judge Heinemann sent the three youths to their home and issued a summons to their parents to meet with him for a conference at which it will be decided what to do with the boys.

The same three boys were arrested recently after they entered several restaurants, ordered lunches, and then left without paying. These charges against them are still pending.

BRIDE FLEES FROM BAY STATE HOSPITAL

Jumps 18 Feet from Window of Room Just as Nurse Opens Door

Worcester, Mass.—(P)—Barbara Buffum Bramwell, who was committed to the Worcester State hospital last Friday following her wedding on Monday to "Sir" Wilton Bramwell, who turned out to be a steward's clerk on the S. S. Mauretania, escaped from the hospital early today. She jumped 18 feet from the window of her private room. A nurse entered the room just in time to see her drop.

The marriage of the daughter of a Webster bank cashier to Bramwell, who friends had been told was a member of British nobility, and a naval commander was a social event at Oxford, her home town, but led to a number of surprising revelations.

The first was that Bramwell was not listed among the British peerage nor in the British Naval registry, despite the belief of the bride's family that he was not only a knight but a royal naval commander.

The second was that Bramwell's "best friend" had been retained only two days previous to act the part by Miss Buffum.

Later, the bride, discovered in a Boston hotel on a husbandless honeymoon, asserted her "high hat" relatives were to blame for the pretious wedding announcements. Shortly afterward it became known she was an inmate of the Worcester State hospital out on a so-called "visiting" leave and she was committed to the institution.

wedding, knew nothing beforehand of the plan to bestow a title upon him, as far as could be learned.

Passaic, N. J.—Owen Cunningham, not a captain has done a satisfactory job to all concerned. A 200-pound buck deer was claimed by three hunters. All insisted their bullets had killed it. The captain called in a butcher who trisected the animal, or something like that.

S. mail carrier. Sommerhalter has taken part in many national and state shoots. He took first place in the National Rifle matches at Jacksonville, Fla. LOANS ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Open an account with Household for a loan of $100 to $300*

This new loan plan, introduced by Household to serve husbands and wives in temporary need of ready cash, makes available loans of $100 to $300 on a regular installment account basis.

In the same way that you go to your store for the goods you need and ask them to charge it, you now ask us for the cash you need—and we charge it to your account.

Here's the basis on which you borrow under this Plan: You get the full amount of money you ask for—$100 to $300. We give you as long as a year and eight months to repay. If you wish, however, you may make larger and more frequent payments than we require, or pay up your entire balance at any time. Charge will be made only for the actual number of days you keep the money. And the cost, if you borrow under Household's lower rate, is nearly one-third less than the lawful maximum.

The Household Plan requires no outside signers or endorsers—neither do we make inquiries about you through your friends, relatives or employer. So do not hesitate to visit, write or phone our nearest office if you want to open an account for loans. Or, a representative will call at your home if more convenient.

*As a special service, Household makes loans of $50 to $100 at a rate slightly higher than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.

SCHNEIDER PUSHES FUND FIGHT TO AID INDIAN EDUCATION

Question Results in Discussion With Dry-Michigan Congressman

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent.

Washington—The discussion started with the question of lending money to Indian youths to enable them to get higher education, a policy which started at the instance of Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton.

But since two "wet" Wisconsin congressmen were talking about it with the "dry" Rep. Louis Cramton of Michigan, recently defeated by a "wet", and since the Indian bureau was criticized for not providing high school education for Indian children, Rep. Cramton promptly barged into an attack upon enforcement of the prohibition laws in the vicinity of the Menominee Indian reservation.

Rep. Cramton was criticizing the Wisconsin congressional delegation for asking for other benefits for the Indians and not urging that there be "more of law enforcement in the community adjacent to the reservation."

Refusing to go into details, Rep. Cramton said, "I will say that I do not know of any situation that has been worse in territory adjacent to an Indian reservation than that adjacent to the Menominee reservation in Wisconsin."

Not Up To State
What Rep. Cramton, that unreconciled prohibitionist, apparently did not remember is that Wisconsin has no state prohibition law, and that if prohibition is to be enforced adjacent to the Menominee reservation, the federal government will have to do it.

Rep. Schneider, who had taken part in the discussion of education for the Indians, had nothing to say about prohibition, but commented afterwards that if it is true that conditions are worse near the Menominee reservation than near any other Indian reservation, it is because the Menominees have money to buy. After all, they have four or five million dollars in the treasury, and an income from their timber and their lumber mill, and that must be a temptation to bootleggers, in Rep. Schneider's opinion.

Anyhow, despite Rep. Cramton's bitter feeling about law enforcement, the opportunity for young Indian boys and girls to borrow money to go to universities and colleges is continued this year, having been first started last year when Rep. Schneider got the provision in an appropriation bill, with the aid of Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Jr.

Rep. Schneider said it is difficult, however, for the young Indians to prepare for a university education, because the Indian schools take them only to about the tenth grade, and it is many miles to public high schools in the vicinity, with no transportation furnished them by the Bureau of Indian Affairs to permit them to go to the public schools open to them.

Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee suggested that the Menominees should buy a bus to take their high school students to the white high school nearby.

Passes Lampert Bill
On the first "unanimous consent day" the House of Representatives had, it passed the bill introduced by the late Rep. Florian Lampert of Oshkosh authorizing a federal survey of the Fox river for the purpose of flood control.

Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, successor to the Oshkosh congressman, defended the bill against an attack by Rep. Fiorello La Guardia of New York, and got him to withdraw his objections. Rep. Reilly said there are thousands of acres flooded every year by the Fox, and that all the people want is a survey to see if it can be controlled.

He had to convince the New York congressman that the Fox is actually a navigable stream, and even had to convince a Milwaukee congressman, Rep. William H. Stafford, who got the lower Fox mixed up with the upper Fox.

The bill is now before the Senate Committee on Commerce.

Down in the House of Representatives document room there are some special boxes in which congressmen have bills put by particular request. Blue Letters of Stoughton runs this office. Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, Rep. S. O. Bland of Virginia, and Rep. John N. Garner, Texas, the minority floor leader, are the only ones who have requests that every bill, private or public, introduced in the house be collected for them.

Several others, including Rep. John M. Nelson of Madison, have all bills reported by committees, together with the reports, put in boxes set aside for them. It is only the reported bills that are on the house calendar. But Rep. Stafford has to have them all.

Joins "Wet Bloc"
Rep. Michael K. Reilly, the new Democratic congressman from Fond du Lac, joined the "wet bloc" of the house of representatives at its first meeting during the past week. Of course, it would have been news if he had not.

Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., of Madison has been taking a little kidding during the past week from newspaper men who attended the Guidon club dinner. It seems that the young senator, a bridegroom of three months, left the dinner early, and they seem to think he did not go home so early before he was married. All they are waiting for now is for him to stay up late some night so they can say, "Honey-moon's over!"

It was at this dinner that Sen. La Follette and Samuel Insull Jr.,

son of the Chicago utility magnate, were stood up together "on the grid-iron" and introduced as "two members of the younger generation who ought to know each other better."

Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, who was a Washington visitor during the past week, seems to be going Joyce Kilmer one better. The leading artic in the Christmas issue of "American Forests and Forest Life," published here, is by Dr. Frank, and it he says:

"The man who builds a machine may know only the craftsman's satisfaction with a job well done, but the man who plants a tree becomes a partner with God in a creative act, for he cannot build trees, we can only preside at the mystery of their growth."
"Must Dress Land"
Urging reforestation, Dr. Frank says, "We must learn to dress the land we have deflowered. . . We must become high-minded statesmen of our resources. . . We must substitute rational forestry for reckless timber-slashing. . . Conservation calls for a reform of the American mind as well as a reforestation of denuded areas."

Rep. Edward E. Browne of Waukegan is jubilant over the final success of a long series of efforts he has made to obtain veterans' compensation for a well-known physician of his home town, Dr. Harry E. McLaughlin. Dr. McLaughlin was a lieutenant during the World war and suffered disabilities. He was denied compensation, after several appeals, but at last it was granted, and he is getting some $750 in back pay and $60 a month hereafter.

Wisconsin men who have recently accepted appointments or promotions in the Army reserve corps include one major, six captains, eight first lieutenants, and 23 second lieutenants.

Augustus Lawrence, Dr. J. C. Ripon was promoted to the rank of major in the Chemical Warfare reserves.
The new captains are: William Alexander Werrell, Madison, Medical corps; Robert John Brooks, Wauwatosa, Dental corps; John Vernon Steidle, Racine, Artillery; Alfred Schardt and Lorrin Campbell Lobb of Milwaukee, and Robert Charles McCoy of Sparta, all in the Infantry.
Among the first lieutenants are: Henry William Haas, Peshtigo, and Francis Charles Lane, Merrill, Medical corps; Earl Joseph Carter, Peshtigo, Dental corps; and William Gustav Sander, Beloit, Field Artillery.

Laurence Peter Hansen, Cashton, and Herbert William Stoker, Waukegan. And Arthur, Douglas Benjamin Davenport, Eau Claire, Archibald Stewart Hill Jr., Wauwatosa, and Arthur William Johnson, Kenosha, Cavalry; Henry Rhinehart Miller, Reedsburg, Laurence Verner Johnson, Chippewa Falls, Frank Joseph Schneller, Jr., and Howard Grant Whitman of Neenah, David Harold Thompson, La Crosse, and Floyd Edwin Wood, Milton, all in the Infantry; Roy Anderson Hoffman, Burlington, Medical Administration; and Abe David Sauber, Green Bay, Quartermaster corps.

GET HER WOMAN
New York—Mrs. Pasquale Longo's daughter had disappeared. She went to see a gypsy woman, Mary Castoro, to see if she could locate the girl. Mary induced Mrs. Longo to leave $555 with her, saying she would find the daughter. Days passed without word from the gypsy, and Mrs. Longo set out to find her. She tramped the streets of five boroughs before she could locate her. Then she took the 200-pound gypsy to the police station.

Not Up To State

What Rep. Cramton, that unreconciled prohibitionist, apparently did not remember is that Wisconsin has no state prohibition law, and that if prohibition is to be enforced adjacent to the Menominee reservation, the federal government will have to do it.

Rep. Schneider, who had taken part in the discussion of education for the Indians, had nothing to say about prohibition, but commented afterwards that if it is true that conditions are worse near the Menominee reservation than near any other Indian reservation, it is because the Menominees have money to buy. After all, they have four or five million dollars in the treasury, and an income from their timber and their lumber mill, and that must be a temptation to bootleggers, in Rep. Schneider's opinion.

Anyhow, despite Rep. Cramton's bitter feeling about law enforcement, the opportunity for young Indian boys and girls to borrow money to go to universities and colleges is continued this year, having been first started last year when Rep. Schneider got the provision in an appropriation bill, with the aid of Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Jr.

Rep. Schneider said it is difficult, however, for the young Indians to prepare for a university education, because the Indian schools take them only to about the tenth grade, and it is many miles to public high schools in the vicinity, with no transportation furnished them by the Bureau of Indian Affairs to permit them to go to the public schools open to them.

Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee suggested that the Menominees should buy a bus to take their high school students to the white high school nearby.

Passes Lampert Bill
On the first "unanimous consent day" the House of Representatives had, it passed the bill introduced by the late Rep. Florian Lampert of Oshkosh authorizing a federal survey of the Fox river for the purpose of flood control.

Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, successor to the Oshkosh congressman, defended the bill against an attack by Rep. Fiorello La Guardia of New York, and got him to withdraw his objections. Rep. Reilly said there are thousands of acres flooded every year by the Fox, and that all the people want is a survey to see if it can be controlled.

He had to convince the New York congressman that the Fox is actually a navigable stream, and even had to convince a Milwaukee congressman, Rep. William H. Stafford, who busses taking away passenger traffic from the railroads but the aviation lines are beginning in some parts of the country to compete with the railroads. Large sums are being used by the government for the development of inland waterways, which means of course more competition for the railroads; and the latter have not ceased to complain about the burdens imposed upon them through the Panama canal competition.

Pipe Lines Cut Freight
Large losses in tonnage have developed in recent months through the carriage of gasoline through pipe lines and a development of gas transmission from the oil fields to the northern part of the United States, thus cutting down the potential freight that has been accruing from coal carrying.

It now is being argued that a large number of people can be put to work on the railroads not only in replacement of equipment but in maintenance work. Usually the plight of the railroad is not taken seriously until something dramatic and compelling happens which crystallizes opinion.

The depression in the railroad business has been growing steadily worse instead of better and it is believed that President Hoover is getting ready to ask congress to take immediate steps to aid the roads. There have been suggestions of an increase in rates but while the Interstate Commerce Commission would have power to do this, it is felt that if the original purposes of the consolidation plans are carried out and economies can be effected in operation, the whole rate structure may not have to be disturbed, though to be sure the matter of rates is complicated at present by the abnormal economic situation that exists throughout the country.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"CAPRICORN"

If December 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The adverse periods are from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m.

You will not consider yourself "lucky" on this date, no matter what your good fortune may be, for the astrological influences will fill your mind with discontentment. Anxiety concerning relatives, or differences of opinions with such. Preconceived plans will not be interfered with, and their fulfillment should be an easy accomplishment.

Children born on this December 23rd will have preserving natures, tidy habits, and studious minds. They will have high ambitions, and will be willing to pay the price for their fulfillment. They will be sympathetic, warm-hearted and generous.

You have a highly sensitive and mobile nature, and though your manner is somewhat detached and supercilious, you exert an undeniable fascination over those who know you at all well. It is no effort for you to keep people at a comfortable distance, and you quickly squish any attempted undesirable familiarity, without offending the would-be intruder. There is no affection about you. You care so little for the opinions of others to trouble about maintaining any pose.

You are an indefatigable student; your mind is ever eager for knowledge, and you will devote much time to the study of various interests outside of what you consider to be your serious work. Your hands may not always be busy, but your brain seldom takes a rest, and you are in no sense an idler. You are not emotionless, but your emotions are, in the main, intellectual.

You are fitted for work which requires an inquisitive mind, such as the legal or medical professions. You should make a good amateur musician, a clever correspondent, an interesting and intelligent conversationalist, and more than the average sportsman. You have spiritual and religious longings, which your church will not be able to fill, and you will never accept any given creeds and doctrines. You are a true worshipper of nature.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN

December 23rd:

- 1—John Syng Dorsey—physician and surgeon.
- 2—Joseph Smith—founder of Mormon church.
- 3—Thomas W. Evans—Dentist.
- 4—Amos R. Wells—author.
- 5—William H. Moody—former associate Justice of Supreme Court.
- 6—Oscar Strauss—philanthropist.

Says-

Mrs. Jones
to Mrs. Smith

"Yes," says she, "WINTER KING" was our choice again this year. We liked it so well last winter that we ordered it early this year—before house cleaning time. John says it is just the fuel he has been looking for... plenty of heat and a surprisingly small amount of ash."

WINTER KING

"THE COAL THAT LASTS LONGER"

It's the last word in fuel. Cleaned at the mine, cleaned at the dock and cleaned in our yards... most economical because it does the work it is called upon to do, has no waste and it outlasts the ordinary coals.

WARNS RESIDENTS AGAINST HAZARDS OF YULETIDE FIRES

Fire Chief Advises Electric Lights for Decorations on Trees

Kaukauna—Fire chief Albert Luc-kow cautions residents against the hazards of fire from Christmas trees and decorations. He advises that Christmas trees be lighted with electric lights instead of candles.

He points out that each year there are fires lost and much damage caused by fire. Most of the holiday fires can be prevented.

The fire chief has completed his quarterly fire inspection of the business districts and reports that most of the places are in excellent condition. However, there are a few places which have neglected to eliminate fire hazards, and will be reported to the state inspectors if they are not cleaned up immediately.

Though four regular fire inspections are taken each year, inspections of various places are made from time to time and also on complaint, the fire chief said. Two of the inspections cover the entire city while the business sections of the city are inspected four times a year.

"CATS AND DOGS" OF SECURITY MARKET SOLD THIS MONTH

Valueless Offerings Put on Auction Block for Tax Losses

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York.—(CPA)—December is a month when all of the "cats and dogs" of the security markets are brought out from hiding and put up on the auction block for the purpose of establishing tax losses for their owners. The weekly sales this month have so far revealed the usual long list of financial tragedies of those who have purchased securities and gone into business ventures with more imagination than judgment.

The lists of weekly offerings of securities run to the length of several columns of fine type in the local papers. While they include a few securities of recognized value and having a listed market, the majority come under that classification which Wall Street has for years described as "not being worth the paper they are printed on." This may be an exaggerated statement, for the auctioneer is frequently able to obtain prices that must astonish the seller. There are a lot of people who seem to like to attend auction sales and pay prices for goods offered there above going market values.

Gold Mine Stocks
A conspicuous representative of the family of securities always to be found in these sales is the stock of gold mines. Investors have been buying gold mining stocks from time immemorial. The skeleton in the financial closet of many families takes the form of a bundle of gold-mining company certificates on which some member expected to make his fortune. One block of 25,000 shares of such a company sold last week for $6 and another of $18,000 shares at the same figure. A 32,000-share block of a zinc mine also brought $5 while $8 would have secured 33,500 shares in three mining enterprises carrying romantic names.

One of the significant features of this year's sales has been the large number of real estate mortgages and participating certificates offered by companies that peddled their high coupon securities over the country and later went out of business. The shrinkages in this class of equities have been tremendous. Real estate enterprises that have gone "sour" in various parts of the country have figured prominently in the auction sales.

"Improvement" Bonds
Another evidence of a radical change in values is to be found in the number of so-called "public improvement" bonds offered during the boom days of Florida municipalities at about 10 cents on the dollar and now sold with difficulty at from 25 to 50 per cent of their first cost.

Still another reflex of the deflation in Florida is in the nominal prices paid by bidders for stocks of banks in that state that had to close because they were too heavily loaned up on real estate which they had taken at values placed on it four or five years ago.

Some of the business enterprises most commonly represented in the list of auction securities are: those dealing with fruit raising companies, moving pictures, candy shops, safety razors, airplanes, fox ranches, lumber and paper firms, and small railroad and traction lines that have gone out of business and whose securities have little more value than that represented in the scrap material. There will be two more auction sales for the benefit of those who wish to establish tax losses before the end of the year.

DEMAND FOR LOANS FELT RECENTLY BY INSURANCE FIRMS

Companies Did Not Sell
Heavily from Portfolios; Figures Prove

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York —(CPA)—
One of the theories most commonly advanced to explain the recent unprecedented decline in prices of domestic bonds has been that the life insurance companies were selling heavily from their portfolios in order to meet the demands of them from policy holders for loans.

This argument is voided now in figures just available showing what operations of 52 legal reserve insurance companies have been during the past year. This includes an estimate of their investment transactions between Sept. 30 and
Dec. 31, 1929.

There is no denial of the fact that the life insurance companies have been called upon by their policy holders for loans in larger amounts since 1928 than at any time in their history. The increase in such loans for the 12 months to Dec. 31, 1929, was $348,000,000. This represented necessitous borrowing when the stock market broke in the autumn of that year.

Heavy Cash Buying
It was also due to a heavy volume of cash buying by policy holders, who used their loan values to purchase securities which either gave them a higher return than the rate of interest paid on the loans or in which they expected to make substantial capital appreciation.

The loan increase this year has amounted to $234,000,000. In this figure is included an extension of $88,000,000 in the September-Deceem-ber quarter. The total increase for the last two years, therefore, has been $682,000,000. It should be stated that this figure includes not only policy loans, but premium notes.

The weakest department of the domestic bond market has been the railroad group. It has been assumed, therefore, that the life insurance companies were liquidating some portion of their railroad portfolio.
The official figures indicate, however, that for the year to Dec. 31, they increased their holdings of railroad bonds and stocks by $108,000, 000, of which $27,000,000 took place in the three months when bond prices were at their lowest and offerings of bonds in greatest volume.

In the last 12 months there has been an increase in the life insurance investment in public utility bonds and stocks of $238,000,000 with $59,000,000 of this having been made in the current quarter.

Other Groups Gain
In other bonds and stocks the 12 months gain has amounted to $141, 000,000, with $36,000,000 of this reflecting purchases in the current period. The only bond group in which decreases have occurred during the year and in the December quarter is that of United States government bonds, which are now $14,000,000 less than they were a year ago, with a reduction of $4,000,000 having taken place recently.

The total bond and stock holdings of these 52 life insurance companies this year, therefore have increased rather than decreased. Actually the estimated holdings as of Dec. 31, 1929, are $550,000,000 larger than those at the end of 1928, with $137, 000,000 in bond values having been added to the insurance company's portfolios in the December quarter of this year.

It is reasonable to expect that, had the life insurance companies not been called upon for such heavy loans from their policy holders as is shown in an increase of $334,000, 000 this year, they would have been

Former Kaiser Appears Content In Dutch Village

Doorn, Holland — (AP) — Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, seen about his preparations for Christmas festivities at the castle where he makes his home, appears perfectly content to be a patriarch in this tiny community which is his exile's home. Time has softened the lines of his face, and his hair, like a patch of snow, gives a benign expression to his aging features.

Here at least he is still a important figure among the humble peasants who pay him all the deference due an ordinary country squire. He goes about them with perfect freedom and with only one attendant, strolling about the streets and looking in at the windows in the little town's half dozen shops. Occasionally he stops in at its cafe for a refreshing glass of water.

Each morning from nine until eleven he works in the rosarium he has given to the village, digging, planting, chopping and sawing as best he can with his one good arm.

The rose garden is not fenced and the villagers walking its paths greet him kindly. Boys and girls on bicycles coast within a few feet of where comes the sound of beech logs falling apart under the busy saw of the once-mighty monarch.

Attendants are always in the offing to protect him from the intrusion of tourists, newspapermen and others with professional axes to grind but with the villagers he is merely a man among his friends.
About the brick laid streets of the village and the castle grounds he dresses much like the others around him. There may still be signs of pomp and power inside the castle, with resplendent uniforms and blazing medals, but among the people all is simplicity.

He seldom wears a hat over his white hair and his suit is the ordinary garb of a country gentleman.
When sawing and chopping wood he pulls a rough laborers' jumper over his suit so that he is hardly distinguishable from the workmen of his revenue "ho hel" him.

The villagers who receive his bounty make it easily possible for him to maintain his position as small town patriarch and they seem really to have forgotten that he is a figure who will go down in history.

To them he is just an old man, rich and kindly, whose generosity is perhaps dependent upon the respect they show him.

He always calls them "hugeness," the villagers say with kindly Dutch smiles. "He likes it—and it doesn't cost us anything."

WILD BEAUTY

by MATEEL HOWE FARNHAM

SYNOPSIS: Fanny Freiburg is happy after she and her husband, David Frost, move away from his mother's home to a cottage of their own in the little town of Clough-barre, Pennsylvania. David's mother, proud leader of the Frost-Brown beck clan 'aristocrats' of Clough-barre, has actively disliked Fanny ever since David ran away to marry her. When David's mother persuades his uncle to refuse him an expected raise in salary at the bank in order to discourage him from moving, David throws up his job and gets another. A daughter, Sheila, is born to David and Fanny. To save David worry, Fanny lies to him about his little extravagances, always hoping to cover them up, but David is not appreciative of her motives when he finds her out. David, unhappily married to Lella, a wealthy cousin of David's, spends a good deal of time with Fanny.

BOB LOSES CONTROL
THE entry of the United States into the war made two changes in Fanny's life. First, Bob Daniels went back into the army and eventually to France; and, Amelia, David's sister, visiting in Washington, met a newspaper man named Clark Smith, fell precipitously in love and, when he was ordered abroad as a war correspondent, married him in a week's notice and went with him as far as London.
In May, 1918, Bob, now a colonel of artillery, came back to Clough-barre on a three days' furlough. On the last morning of his leave he walked in on Fanny when she was in the kitchen making cookies—plain ones for Sheila, spiced ones for David.
"My, but it smells good in here," said Bob, seating himself and lifting back his chair. "What are you cooking—ambrosia?"
"I don't know just what," laughed Fanny. "Mother Frost's cook, Leona, gave me the recipe and Leona cooks entirely by ear—a pinch of this and a little of that."
Fanny was in buff gingham and a white apron. Her sleeves were rolled up above the elbow, showing the milky skin of her beautiful arms; a tiny bead of moisture stood on her perfect upper lip, little golden curls escaped from the vibrant mass of hair, loosely coiled on her head. Bob's eyes brooded on her as if they would never have his fill.
"I want to carry the picture of you with me to France—just as you are now—into eternity, if the bullet with my name on it finds me," Bob's voice was husky.
"Oh, Bob—you're going to France?"
"Any day now—perhaps next week."
The quick tears sprang to Fanny's eyes. She brushed them away with the back of her arm, leaving a smudge of flour on the tip of her nose, and then, low over the dough she was kneading, she came and tugged at Fanny's skirt. When Fanny stooped down Sheila wiped the flour off her mother's nose with her own small handkerchief.
"All dirty," Sheila explained.

"Thank you, darling. You take such good care of Mother. Now I think some of the cookies are done and you can take a plate to Cousin Bob. Then you must have your milk and go to bed."
"Those tears probably don't mean much—I've seen you cry if Sheila scratched her finger or David drowned the kittens," said Bob when Fanny returned from putting Sheila to bed, "but, aside from my sisters', those are only tears I expect to have shed for me."
"Bob, how unkind! You know the Browns—those that it's born in them to feel ashamed of showing emotion. Just the same, Lella is probably crying her eyes out this minute."
"Lella is at the dentist's. She apologized for leaving me my last morning, but Robert's tooth needs filling and she felt she must go along."
"You tell Robert to come and see me this afternoon—that I'll have something for him," Fanny said, busily cutting out a cookie man.
"Fanny... if I shouldn't come back I wish you'd remind the kids occasionally that they had a father who was once a champion fencer at West Point. That, I believe, is my only claim to distinction—try not to forget it."
"When the war is over I suppose the men who come back will soon be just like anybody else; but those who stay will be heroes forever—especially to their children," said Fanny unsteadily.
"Then I hope to God I stay."
"Bye, you dearie!"

A factory whistle blew and Bob glanced at the clock, got to his feet and pulled down his blouse. "Twelve o'clock and I haven't packed yet. My train goes at three. By the way, it's a secret that I'm due to sail very soon. Not even Lella knows."

"Oh, Bob, that isn't kind."
"I told Lella she would begin pulling wires to keep me on this side, as she has before—this time I'm not taking any chances."

"You're as unjust as you can be."
"Yes? Well, maybe I am." Bob picked up his cap, twirled it with nervous fingers. "Fanny—would you mind kissing me good-bye?"

Fanny hesitated. David would not like it. But how should she refuse so little a thing to this hurt, overgrown boy with the beseeching eyes the boy whom she might never see again?

"Why, of course I will," she said as lightly as possible.
Bob kissed her reverently—then his arms suddenly tightened around her and Fanny had to hide her face from his hot lips. Disengaging herself with a little push she hastened to put the table between them.

"There are some things—which don't have to be put in words—," said Bob from the door.
"Better not put in words, Bob. You've been so kind—we've been so good. Let's not spoil it."

"All right, I won't." The door banged behind him.
The very next day Amelia came over to tell Fanny and David that she was engaged to Clark Smith and meant to be married in a week.

Misfortune strikes Fanny and David in tomorrow's chapter, and behind it is a calculating selfishness.

LONDON LADIES HIRE MAID-CHAUFFEURS

London—No male chauffeurs for London society women. They are hiring maids to serve the purposes. Advertisements are appearing in papers worded thus: "Maid able to drive car." And Mrs. Rosetta Setton, a widow of Bramhall-lane, started the fad.

Many women are filling these positions because of the business depression, Mrs. Setton believes. "Some of the applications were from women whose husbands had held good positions in the cotton trade," she says. "They had run cars of their own. Now, in changed circumstances, they offered to drive for me."

Many women are sending their maids to driving school to learn how to run an automobile in order to serve the purpose of a maid-chauffeur.

Wisconsin Regulations Differ Little from National Code

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Wisconsin, which can boast of a flying governor, will have little trouble in making its aeronautic regulatory laws conform with them uniform and national laws advocated by the United States Department of Commerce, according to its delegates to the National conference concerned with that problem.

The official delegates, Oscar J. Schmiede of Appleton, Harry G. Slater and Norman R. Klug, both of Milwaukee, and Lee I. Yorkson of Wausau, said the only minor changes would have to be made in the Badger state's present air laws.

State Senator Oscar Morris of Milwaukee, who was to have attended the conference, was taken ill the

RECREATION AND AMUSEMENT GIFTS IN HEAVY SALES

Christmas Purchases Reach Peak of Season Saturday, Monday

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington (CFA)—Christmas sales reached their peak Saturday and Monday. That means a volume of activity which compared most favorably with other years, although the total money spent may fall below record levels.

The main factors which are holding up the last minute burst of buying are the kids—juvenile and adult. Gifts providing recreation and amusement are being bought in large quantities. Toys are not the flimsy articles they once were. They are being built to last and are bought with the idea that their attraction will be continuous.

Wheel goods, metal toys and miniature indoor models of outdoor games all have attracted attention. Dolls, of course, have held their own. Wholesale toy production for the year equal $90,000,000, but many toys sold here are imported.

For the grown-up youngsters the gifts follow a similar if more mature trend. Sports equipment ranging from wooden golf tees to motor boats, is being selected by thousands of buyers.

Many Golf Purchases
It is doubtful, sporting goods dealers report, whether so many golf accessories ever were purchased in a similar period. Equipment and clothing for tennis, archery, skating and other sports are adding their full quota to sales totals.

In many cities, merchants are stressing "cellar" games for boys and girls and men and women. The theory is that new heating arrangements have given space for these amusements in quarters hitherto devoted to coal bins and wood piles. Such games include miniature and full-sized billiard and pool tables, game tables, air pistol ranges, ping pong tables and similar products.

The sale of books for juveniles and grown-ups has been enormous aided by the cheaper editions and the increased number of retail outlets opened to the book trade in the last year.

Officials of the department of commerce estimate that between 17 and 18 per cent of the whole year's business of candy dealers will be disposed of this month. This will bring the total wholesale value of candy products sold for the year to around $315,000,000. The Christmas trade usually necessitates fancy boxes for the plainer varieties of chocolates and package candies are in less demand than their better dressed relatives. Hard candies for children are selling freely at this time. The sale of nuts will probably bring the total per capita consumption of unshelled varieties to around 10 pounds per person.

TEACHERS ARE LIABLE FOR LIBRARY BOOKS

Rural school teachers of the county are being advised in a letter from A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, that they are definitely responsible for all books in the school library. Mr. Meating cautioned the teachers to make a check-up of their libraries at the beginning and the end of each year to see that the rules and regulations governing the borrowing of books are observed. He pointed out that books taken from the rural school libraries can be charged in the same manner as is done in public libraries and he urged the teachers to follow this practice to protect their books.

Carol on Way to Open Roumania's Parliament

It was an important state occasion, and a large portion of the regal finery available in the royal wardrobe must have been brought out to accompany Roumania's monarch and his retinue as they passed through crowded streets to the opening of Parliament in Bucharest. This picture shows King Carol and his son, Crown Prince Michael, as a state coach with lavishly liveried footmen bore them from the Royal Palace to the Parliament building, where the prodigal ruler presided at an opening legislative session for the first time since his assumption to the throne.

Census Of Distribution Nearing Its Completion

Washington (AP)—The new year, traditional inventory time, will mark completion of stock-taking in many cities through that comprehensive and intricate wholesale and retail summary known as the census of distribution.

Compilation covering all types of industry for Chicago, and for all cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants in the eleven mountain and Pacific coast states are now ready for printing.

They will come from census mimeographing machines and presses soon after the first of the year. Each bulletin will advertise the city it concerns as a market for the wares of the world and permit the merchants therein to check their business, in the light of nation's business, through tables "strictly comparable."

Los Angeles and San Francisco, biggest table-making jobs in the states concerned, will be slower than some of the smaller cities in publication.

Dr. R. J. McFall, chief distribution statistician, explained the western states were attacked first because chain store reports were not so complicated from that section.

Dr. McFall contended comparisons were unfair if retail shops were classified merely as "independents" or "chain." He found Chicago's business warranted 14 classifications, starting with "single-store independents," "two-store multiples" and ending with "manufacturer-controlled chains."

He is making radical changes in the wholesale distribution bulletins also. "In future, instead of giving total business of industries, food, automotive, etc., our lead table will cover the bona-fide wholesale merchants of the community," he said. "The second table will show the amount of business done by various other dealers, wholesale or quasi-wholesale and the third the business total. This will stress the thing of first importance—the true picture of each city as a wholesale market."

MAY RAISE MOISTURE CONTENT OF CHEESE

Madison (AP)—A bill to increase the moisture content of cheese from 39 to 40 per cent will be introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman-Elect Leo Gesicki, Merrill, he has announced here.

"It is rank discrimination against the cheese makers and cheese producers of Wisconsin to limit them to a moisture content of 39 per cent while the process cheese manufacturers are permitted to have a moisture content of 40 per cent," he said. Increasing the moisture content one per cent would not affect the value of the cheese, the assemblyman-elect declared.

The all-important principle in making jelly is the same in roasting HILLS BROS COFFEE

ADD THE warm sugar to the hot fruit syrup a little at a time to be sure of perfect jelly. Hills Bros., by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—insure evenly roasted, full-flavored coffee because they roast only a few pounds at a time. No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros. because none is roasted the same way.

COMMITTEE SEEKS TO DIVERSIFY ITS STATE INDUSTRIES

Agriculture Would Be Included in Project to Prevent Depressions

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—A permanent project to work out means of diversifying industries, including agriculture, in Wisconsin communities so as to enable them to resist periodic depressions is the aim of the Wisconsin Citizens' Committee on Employment, Don D. Lescohier, executive secretary of the committee, said here following conferences with the President's employment committee.

Dr. Lescohier conferred with Fred C. Croton, regional representative of the area including Wisconsin and nine other states, and with other members of the President's committee, headed by Col. Arthur Woods.

These conferences were designed primarily to work out measures concerned with public employment agencies. The results of the conference in this connection were not made public.

The Wisconsin committee, Dr.

Lescohier said, is now trying to stimulate private construction, the state having already accelerated its public works. The advantage of building homes now will be set forth, he said.

The cities which have been worst hit in Wisconsin, he said, are those dominated by one industry, with the possible exception of the papers in which the paper industry dominates. The state as a whole, and many cities in the state, have not suffered as much as the rest of the country because of the diversity of their industry and agriculture. A permanent organization for employment and for diversification of industry will be maintained, he hopes. He expressed the hope that Governor Walter J. Kohler will remain on the committee after the expiration of his term of office, commenting that the Kohler company has paid full wages and worked full time despite the depression, although home building, which is essential to sales of plumbing equipment, has been in a slump long before the stock-market crash. Because of his interest he should remain on the committee, Dr. Lescohier said.
